

Chiang's Wife Winging
Way to Husband's Side
Seeking to Set Him Free

Fails to Heed Urgent Protests of High Officials in Effort to Release the Captive Chiang Kai-Shek.

LONG FIGHT SEEN

Executive Council Indicates a Long War by Abolishing Local Government at Shensi.

Nanking, Dec. 22 (AP)—The American-educated wife of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek flew to her husband's prison today, despite the urgent protests of high officials, for what was possibly a final effort to secure the captive leader's freedom.

The conviction was growing that no end to Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's rebellion to force war against Japan was in sight.

The executive Yuan (council), believed to be despatching of a quick solution of the crisis, abolished the local government of Shensi province, indicating it would be pacified as a conquered territory when the civil war is over.

All provincial affairs were brought directly under the Nanking government and the local chiefs were branded as "rebels who have forfettered all administrative rights."

Adding to the feeling that China was faced with a long-drawn fight for the release of the generalissimo was the fact that Mrs. Chiang and her brother, Dr. T. V. Soong, who accompanied her on the dramatic journey, took huge quantities of luggage, indicating their immediate return to Nanking was unlikely.

Until the last moment before their departure, important personages attempted to dissuade them from making the trip.

May Weaken Resistance

It was feared their presence at Sianfu, capital of the revolting government, would weaken the strong resistance the central government had made to Chang's demands.

Little fear was felt for their safety since the rebellious young marshal seemed to have control of the situation there and had treated Chiang with every respect during the 14 days he had been held prisoner.

Extravagant rumors of a huge ransom demanded by Chang to release the generalissimo circulated through the capital but were emphatically denied. Some of the reports set the sums at from $10,000, 000 to $15,000,000.

Government officials insisted however, that the situation was not one of money but was entirely political.

Marshal Chang, it was pointed out, is immensely wealthy and even additional millions would be meaningless to him.

And should a ransom be paid by the Chiang and Soong families, government officials declared, and the generalissimo released, there still would remain the mutiny against the central authority which would have to be dealt with.

HEAVY HOLIDAY RUSH
EXPECTED BY RAILROAD

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad hurriedly refurnished emergency equipment today and otherwise prepared for an expected record volume of Christmas business.

"We are facing the heaviest holiday travel we have ever experienced," said Ira G. Rasp, division passenger agent.

Every available passenger coach, Pullman, chair and parlor car was pressed into service with special hauling equipment conditioned as fast as the West Albany shops could do over it.

On the basis of reservations already made, Rasp estimated 250 extra trains will have passed over the Central system between New York and Chicago in the period beginning yesterday and ending Christmas Eve.

Indicative of the anticipated volume of travel, he said the Commodore Vanderbilt would leave New York city for Chicago tomorrow in 11 sections, each with 15 passenger coaches.

Arrival of Son.

Middlesex, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—The eyes of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Middlebrook were on the skies today, alert for the promised parachute visit of their son, Harold.

It was said he planned to spend Christmas with the family. Middlebrook said he would jump from a plane owned by John Ackerman of Los Angeles. He said Ackerman, enroute to Washington, and had invited him to come along and "drop off" at his home town.

U. S. Treasury Begins Action To "Freeze" Gold
Inflows and End Threat To Domestic EconomySearch for Plane Shifts; Second Group Fights Along

Salt Lake City, Dec. 22 (AP)— Search for a missing Western Air Express plane and its seven occupants, which vanished a week ago today, was shifted far to the south by private and commercial ships as army reserve fliers took over aerial patrols here.

Meanwhile, at Spokane, Wash., Northwest Airlines officials anxiously waited word from a ground crew sent last yesterday to the scattered wreckage of a St. Paul-Seattle airliner on fire-blackened Cemetery Ridge in north Idaho's wooded wilderness.
No hope was held that Pilots Joe Livemore and Arthur M. Hald were alive.

Reserve Lieutenants Erwin Mc-Williams and Byron Van Cott were assigned to a month's active duty at the Salt Lake City airport today when Allan Barrie, Western Air's vice president, said his men were "closing down the Salt Lake end of the hunt."

"We have run down every lead in this area without success and we are moving our intensive search to the area between Milford and Delta."

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 22 (AP)— Woodsmen trudged on snowshoes today through heavily timbered north Idaho mountain country toward the mile-high spot where a Northwest Airlines transport crashed before dawn last Friday.

Airline headquarters here waited to hear whether the bodies of Pilots Joe Livemore and Arthur A. Hald would be found in the scattered wreckage, sighted on Cemetery Ridge yesterday by Lieut. Byron Cooper, pilot, and Sergt. Richard Hy-lent, of the 118th Observation Squadron. The scene was about 15 miles on an airplane line south of Kellogg, Idaho.

"There isn't a chance that Joe and Arthur are alive," said Cooper.
The wings of the big ship were 290 feet downhill from the fuselage.

Archbishop of York Depicts Edward as Man
Lacking Honor, Victim of Ungodly Passion;
Duke Receives Christmas Gift From Cannes

York, England, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Archbishop of York broke his silence on the abdication of King Edward VIII today, and in words more outspoken than those which drew the fire of press and parliament on the Archbishop of Canterbury, implied the monarch's decision would not have been made by a man of honor.

"The harm was not done in December," he said. "It was done in October, when the intention of marriage was announced to the prime minister."

York declared in his January letter to his disciples, but much earlier.

"It has happened that many a man before now has found himself beginning to fall in love with another man's wife. That's the moment of the critical decision and the right decision is that they should cease to meet before passion is so developed as to create an agonizing conflict between love and duty."

"That decision has often been taken by men of honor."

The Archbishop of York, who ranked second only to Canterbury in the Church of England, declared an abdication which conflicts with the kind of love which conflicts with duty is "not the love of which the gospel speaks."

Some Reconciliation York described the conflict between love and duty as a conflict between the flesh and the spirit.

Young Marshal Wants Resistance for Chiang

Peiping, Dec. 23—(Wednesday)
(AP)—A reputed offer from Chang Hsueh-Liang to submit to any punishment Nanking decrees. If Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek
"will adopt a policy of resistance to our foe" was circulated in this ancient capital early today.

There was no official confirmation.

The so-called offer from "Young Marshal" Chang, who is holding the generalissimo prisoner at Sianfu in the amazing demand for military resistance to Japanese "aggression" was reported contained in a telegram to a group of university chancellors here.

The chancellors had telegraphed Chang, urging him to release the generalissimo.

CHARGED WITH LEAVING SCENE OF AN ACCIDENT

Lawrence Craft of Ellenville reported to the sheriff's office shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night that while he was driving on the Rosen-dale road another car had struck his car and damaged it and continued on without stopping. Craft had observed the license number of the car which he claimed had caused the damage.

Troopers Reilly and Merritt and Deputy Sheriff McCullough started an investigation and learned that the license number given was for a Plymouth coupe owned by Thomas J. and Viola A. Murphy of 87 Pine Grove avenue.

This morning Murphy appeared at the sheriff's office and he will probably have a hearing before Justice Webster this evening on a charge of having left the scene of an accident.

Royal Family Departs

London, Dec. 22 (AP)—Britain's royal family, loaded down with rally wrapped Christmas presents, left London today for a holiday celebration at Sandringham country house. King George and Queen Elizabeth led the royal procession which also included Queen Mother
Mary and the two little princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose. The boarded the royal train, used for the first time since the death of King George V, as crowds cheered the family party.

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—Forging its borrowing powers into a powerful new instrument of credit control, the treasury began action today to "freeze" gold inflows and wipe out their double-edged threat to domestic economy.

The broad program, similar in some respects to that of the British equalization fund, provides for:

The purchase of all imported and domestic gold with treasury receipts from the sale of discount bills.

Deposit of future gold acquisitions in an "inactive" treasury account.

The purchase or redemption of outstanding bills by the treasury when gold flows out.

This "balance wheel" plan has the effect of removing loanable funds from the money market when gold flows in and returning the funds when it goes out.

Gold imports formerly were paid for by issuance of gold certificates to Federal Reserve Banks. This operation had the effect of putting new funds from an outside source into the money market, swelling the reservoir of credit and laying the basis for potential "runaway inflation."

Under Old System

Conversely, under the old system, gold exports drained away loanable funds, tending to tighten credit.

The new system is designed to eliminate both of these dangers.

With Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board at his side, Secretary Morgenthau told a press conference last night that President Roosevelt had approved the new plan.

By nullifying effects of further gold imports, Eccles said, the treasury would make it possible for the reserve board to deal with credit problems raised by already-high excess reserves.

These reserves are funds over and above those required to be held against deposits. Economists estimate that each $1 of such reserves can support from $8 to $10 of credit.

It was to prevent a "possible injurious credit expansion" that the reserve board increased reserve requirements by 50 per cent last August. This action tied up about $1-500,000,000 of loanable funds by requiring that they be held as reserves behind deposits.

By increasing reserve requirements again or by disposing of government securities, Eccles said, the reserve board can handle the present excess reserves. These now aggregate $2,050,000,000 and are expected to increase to about $2,300,000, 000 when funds flow back to the bank after the holidays.

POUGHKEEPSIE DOCTOR
HAS RETRIEVING CAT

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)— Dr. H. Landron B. Ryder told today of the feats of "Nikko, the retrieving cat" and "wondered if anybody else's cat does it."

"I sit by the radio and throw a button or something to another side of the room," the doctor explained.
"Nikko races after the object and returns it to my feet. If I'm reading or doing something else, he presses on my foot until he gets my attention."

He told of Nikko's other accomplishment—such as riding like a dog in the family car. "I was based on a window or door."

"It all seems very unusual for a cat and I was wondering if anybody else's cat does it," he said.

Cuba's Senate Meets to Consider Gomez Case, House Impeaches Him

President of Neighboring Island Republic Seems on Way Out as Result of Vetoing Sugar Tax Bill.

BRU FOR POST

Dr. Federico Laredo Bru, Vice-President, Will be President, if Senate Votes Impeachment.

By EDMUND A. CHESTER

Havana, Dec. 22 (AP)—Cuba's Senate met as a court of justice today for what virtually all political observers believed would be the swift exit of Miguel Mariano Gomez from the presidential palace.

The body convened at high noon to constitute itself into a court for the trial on impeachment charges of Gomez, with preliminaries out of the way, leaders said there would be an adjournment until noon Thursday.
During the interim Gomez will prepare his defense.

Gomez was generally conceded the complete loser in his struggle with the island's military iron man—Col.
Fulgencio Batista, the army chief of staff—on the decisive issue of a sugar tax to open hundreds of rural, soldier-taught schools.

Impeached by the House of Representatives early today by a 3-vote margin, Gomez seemed definitely on his way out of the presidential palace and quickly, at that.

The Senate was called together at noon to try him on the impeachment charges, accusing him of interfering with legislative prerogatives. He opposed the sugar tax bill. Because he considered the army school system a "fascistic tumor."

Havana, having no doubt the Senate's action would be a flat ouster decision, recalled that Gomez twice was forced out of office as mayor of the city.

On one occasion President Gerardo
Machado, now a fugitive, declared Havana a federal district in order to eliminate the mayor. Later, during the Mendizola regime, Gomez was re-named mayor but was forced out early in 1935 because he refused to yield to the demands of striking emergency hospital internes.

The chief justice of the Supreme Court, Juan F. Edelman, who seven months ago gave Gomez the presidential oath, was selected to preside at the senate court.

A majority of the senate's 36 votes was all that was needed to remove Gomez immediately—without appeal.
Then Dr. Federico Laredo Bru, the vice president, automatically would become president.

The house vote on impeachment, 117 to 45, three more than the needed two-thirds majority, followed a session in which the speaker, Arturo Illas, laid his pistol on his desk after two members had drawn guns and threatened to "kill anyone who fires a shot."

Members of the cabinet, as is customary when there is a change of presidents, were expected to tender their resignations after the senate's ouster vote in order to give Dr.
Laredo Bru a free hand.

That, however, was a routine step.
No one believed Laredo Bru would decline the highest office in the land, although his public comment in the present crisis has been reserved.

KRUPP TO GET ONIONS
FOR BUILDING BRIDGE

Berlin, Dec. 22 (AP)—The great Krupp works pitched in today to help
Germany solve the food shortage.

It will furnish onions, as well as arms, to the third Reich.

Krupp will build a bridge across the Nile for the Egyptian government. In part payment, the company will take Egyptian onions, and bring them back to Germany.

It also was learned there will not be enough Christmas geese in Germany for every family, although, it was estimated, three million will be consumed in the nation.

Foot dealers heard unofficially that only day-old bread would be sold in the Reich after January 1, but there was no decree as yet.
Since fresh bread is consumed in larger quantities than when it is old, the government apparently expected an automatic reduction in grain consumption by this device.

RETURN OF MME. SCHNEIDER REQUESTED BY FRENCH POLICE

London, Dec. 22 (AP)—French police requested Scotland Yard today to return Mme. Marie Schneider to France for hearing on charges of shootings. Pierre L'Aliment, her night companion, over Villacoublay Sunday.

British authorities and Mme.
Schneider, wife of a wealthy French machine manufacturer, would probably be brought to London from Selva, Suva, where she is recovering after crashing her plane in a field.

The French woman pilot will probably be given an extradition hearing in a London police court, they declared.

Pope Meditates On Christmas Message,
Health Improves

Vatican City, Dec. 22 (AP)—Pope Pius meditated today upon the Christmas eve message he will broadcast to the world.

A semi-official Vatican bulletin said his health "continues to improve."

Primates said the Holy Father, in the radio message he will make at 12:30 p. m. Thursday (6:30 a. m.
Eastern Standard Time) probably will place emphasis on the grave conditions which afflict the world, and will expound the principles through which humanity may win salvation.

He also will voice appreciation of the worldwide expressions of sympathy which his current illness have inspired.

In all likelihood the message will be very brief.

The Pontiff's visitors today were Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Monsignor Giuseppe Pizzardo and Giuseppe Momo, Vatican architect.

Vatican sources said today that physicians of Pope Pius were dismayed by the Holy Father's intention to broadcast his Christmas message.

The doctors hastened to the Papal apartments and were understood to be attempting to forestall His Holiness' enthusiasm for the project.

White technicians, at the Pope's order, worked overtime to rig up the broadcasting apparatus. The physicians were said to be none too sure the Holy Father would be able to stand the exertion.

The Pontiff spent another restless night with his sleep troubled by shortness of breath and pain in his swollen legs.

Reliable sources said his unbalanced circulatory system with the consequent strain on the heart that has served him for 50 years continued to cause most of his medical apprehension for his recovery.

Buys 55-Acre Estate
Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 22 (AP)— Libby Holman Reynolds, the torch singer, has purchased a 55-acre estate along the picturesque Mianus river here. The town clerk's office reported today a deed transferring the property to the widow of Smith Reynolds, heir to the Reynolds tobacco fortune, indicated the purchase price was approximately $77-500.

Confirmed to Bed
After treating the stricken mother, Dr. Silk drove to Albany and removed Dr. Bush to his home in Kingston, arriving about 8 o'clock.
Dr. Bush was kept in bed all day and Dr. Silk said, probably will probably have to remain there for a week or so. Dr. Silk is watching for further developments, fearing the concussion may result in a condition more serious than at present.

The truck driver was detained after the accident for questioning and confined in the Greene county jail at Catskill, where he was awaiting a probe by the state police today. It was said he had not been interviewed, because the troopers desired to thoroughly investigate all angles of the accident before talking to him.

It was said by the police in Catskill, however, that up to the point reached in the investigation so far, there seemed to be no blame on the part of Silk. There is no charge against him.

Christmas Shopping
Dr. Bush told the police that he and Miss Rarey had gone to Albany to do some Christmas shopping for his mother, Mrs. Bertha B. Bush of 4 John street. He asked the girl to accompany him as she could move the selection of the gift for his mother.

They were driving home when the accident happened, the physician told the police.

Miss Rarey had been employed as

Miss Marjorie Rarey, 23-year-old secretary to Dr. William S. Bush of 8 John street, died almost instantly shortly after midnight when the physician's car, which she was driving, collided with a truck, two miles south of Ravens, crashed through a guard rail and ended in a field. The top of the car was almost completely torn off.

The physician, who was riding with Miss Rarey, asleep in the rear seat of his 1937 Buick coach, suffered injuries amounting to a slight concussion of the brain, and scalp wounds, Dr. Maurice Silk of Kingston said.

George Silco, 39, a truck driver of Pittsford, N. Y., whose vehicle was involved in the collision, was held by the state police for questioning at the Greene county jail in Catskill.
No charge had been lodged against him up until noon today.

Lost Control of Car
According to the state police patrol at Ravens, under the supervision of Corporal Merkel, the accident happened when Miss Rarey, driving south, evidently lost control of the car, and it ran off the concrete on the recently constructed highway, the wheels on the right side going into the depression between the road and the ground along side of it. The shoulder of the road is incomplete.

The girl, the police surmised, tried to right the course of the car, and it bounded across the highway, according to the marks on the pavement, and collided with the truck Silk was driving north for the Pittsford Coal and Produce Company of Pittsford.
The impact drove the truck across the road, through a guard-rail, down an embankment and into a field.

"Whether the car turned over," said Corporal Merkel, "I could not state, but the top was badly demolished, being pushed back almost over the compartment in the rear."

Jury Discharged In Ferraro Case

The jury which heard the evidence in the contract action between Frank Ferraro, doing business under the name of "Ferraro's Bus Line," against Hudson Transit Corporation was discharged from further service this morning by Justice Harry E. Schrick. The action involving a claim for $1,000 damages, was taken up for trial before Justice Sydney F. Foster and testimony was concluded. A recess was taken until Monday, December 14, when the summations and charge was to be delivered. Over the week-end Justice Foster was taken ill and the case was held pending his ability to return and submit the case.

Justice Schrick took over the term of court and continued it under the impression that Justice Foster would be here this week, but when it became apparent his health would not permit his return here this term the case was submitted to the court on consent of counsel and the jurors dismissed from further service.

Brinley & Elsworth appeared for the plaintiffs and Francis T. Murray and A. J. Cook appeared for the defendant.

Summations were made in Herberich-Ginsberg case this morning and that matter was submitted to the jury. All jurors not engaged on the case on trial were excused for the term.

Justice Foster will not be able to appear and take the report of the grand jury Wednesday as scheduled, and arrangements were being made today for Justice Schrick to receive the report if possible.

Beaverbrook Raps York's Criticism

London, Dec. 22 (AP).—Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard, objecting to criticism of former King Edward by the Archbishop of York, said today "the need for restraint, understanding and patience is not less now when the nation has to overcome a deep sense of loss."

"The crisis ended December 10 with the abdication," the newspaper said in an editorial. "After that event, whatever a man's views might have been during the crisis and at the climax, it became his highest duty to submit himself to a self-denying ordinance directed against recrimination."

Bernard Shaw says Edward renounced his throne "not because of his intention to marry Mrs. Simpson, but simply because he hated his job." About "arf" n' "arf," we'd say.

U. S. Second in Battleship Race

London, Dec. 22 (AP).—Great Britain was depicted today as leading a huge world-wide naval armament race with 39 warships under construction or planned.

The United States, with 83, was said to be second in the new edition of "Jane's Fighting Ships," foremost authority on warships.

The publication drew a picture of an unrestrained race for naval supremacy ready to be thrown into high gear on January 1 when the old Washington and London naval treaties expire.

The United States contemplated two new battleships, Jane's stated, carrying the largest guns of any warships afloat.

The American government, the new year book said, will install 16-inch guns on the new men-of-war. If Jane's is correct it means that Washington has determined Japan would not consent to the 14-inch limitation imposed by the 1936 London treaty between the United States, France and Great Britain.

Three Dead After Cuban Dispute

Mexico City, Dec. 22 (AP).—Congressman Salvador Mayorga died early today, bringing to three the number dead as a result of a gun battle last night near the chamber of deputies building.

Camerino Perez, Agrarian leader from Hidalgo, and Similiti Cruz also were killed. More than 30 shots were fired.

Major Roberto Hernandez, of the Mexican army, who with two followers engaged with Mayorga and his friend in the battle was quoted by police as saying it was a "tragic mistake."

Hicks Found Guilty

Brookville, Ind., Dec. 22 (AP).—Found guilty of murder for the second time in 20 years, Gleber L. Hicks, 39, today heard himself condemned to die in the electric chair next April 10 for the "head and hands" slaying of Harry R. Miller, wealthy retired Cincinnati fire captain. A jury of 12 Indiana farmers returned a verdict of "guilty of premeditated murder" just at midnight, after nearly four hours of deliberation.

KINGSTON, N. Y., DEC. 22, 1936.

TWO DEMOCRACIES.

It appears that there is in London now a committee consisting of members of Parliament "formed unofficially to further understanding with America." Speaking at its first meeting, Prime Minister Baldwin expressed his joy that Great Britain and the United States "have a common bond, namely a great democratic system." He added: "Uninformed criticism on both sides is useless and might do a great deal of harm. Rather should we both pull together for the ideals we both hold."

This latter statement is true enough. It is desirable for Britain and America to get along amicably, with a reasonable amount of co-operation. In this present-day world, we have the same language and culture and, generally speaking, the same kind of institutions. We think alike on far more things than we differ about. We are the two greatest groups of what may be roughly described as "the same kind of people." In a world bristling with war preparations and with un-American and un-English institutions and ideas, it is well for us to be friends.

We may grant, too, that Britain now has what may be called "a democratic system" of life and government. But many of us are not inclined to accept Stanley Baldwin as the best spokesman for democracy. There was very little democracy, as we understand it, in the procedure by which the Premier, by his own confession, caused King Edward off the throne and shoved him into exile. He handed that business like an autocrat, acting alone, presenting Parliament and the nation with an accomplished fact, demanding an O. K. and getting it before the other fellow could present his side and public opinion could be sounded.

Not that we Americans are seriously concerned either about Edward or Wally. But facts are facts and principles are principles. The "plain people of England" are democratic, and so are many of the middle and some of the upper classes. But Stanley Baldwin's government is not democratic, and the "governing class" which he represents is less democratic than the former King.

BUDGET FACTS.

The government budget looks more hopeful today. According to present estimates, federal income for the current fiscal year, which ends next June, will be about $5,686,000,000. This means an increase of about $1,500,000,000 over last year's receipts and $1,800,000,000 over the year before. The reasons are better business and new income from profits taxes. There will still be a rather large deficit for the present fiscal year, but only about half as large as for 1935-6. Thus the unbalanced budget, while still serious, begins to look less fearsome.

If the next year's income gained as much as this year's, the budget would be about balanced on the current scale of spending. Such continued gain is not expected and the obvious remedy is to curtail expenditure. By the latter process, a retrenchment of about a billion and a half would turn the trick. Or say a billion less spending and a half a billion more income. Then we could start reducing the big debt. That debt, now about $25,000,000,000 without allowance for recoverable assets, is nearly $10,000,000,000 above its previous high of 1913.

KEEP OUT OF SPAIN

There is talk of mediation in Spain. Some well-meaning European powers—the democratic ones, of course—would like Uncle Sam to join them in trying to restore peace to that tragic land. But what mediation is possible in such a matter of blood and passion? "Civil war" is not only a war of mortal combat. Even in the ordinary civil war there are two rather elementary parties fighting each other, and the issues are fairly definite. In Spain it is most strange like a free-for-all. The rebel group calling itself Nationalist, is roughly described by outsiders as Fascist; and the government group is known as Loyalist, Liberal, Communist, or Anarchist according to where the speaker stands.

Roughly speaking, as Americans see it, the insurrection represents the propertied and conservative groups and the defense represents the liberals and radicals, with the moral advantage of representing also the lawfully elected government. But both sides present many different interests and prejudices, and both have scrapped the supposed rules of civilized warfare, and both have committed so many acts of needless cruelty and barbarism, that they are in no mood now to listen to reason from any outside source. Added to this devil's brew is the growing participation of other nations hostile to each other.

It is a bad mess to get into, and any peacemaker at this stage is likely to get into trouble. The external dangers are even greater than the internal. Many observers are saying now that this murderous little war in Spain is really "the next World War" already begun. Uncle Sam will do well to keep out.

WPA LEARNER AT 87.

There are both humor and pathos in the story of the great-grandmother in New York who has been learning to read and write in a WPA adult education class. The eighty-seven-year-old pupil was born a slave on a Virginia plantation twelve years before the Civil War. She had no schooling there and was "whipped" if anyone caught her with a book. All her life poverty and its problems interfered with her education. Finally the great depression brought this destitute old woman her first real opportunity to learn. She is the most faithful member of the class in attendance and is making real progress. She is eager to read, to find out for herself what is going on in the world.

What difference will this little bit of education make to her? Very little, perhaps, unless you think her own satisfaction is worth something. She won't be able to read much. She won't teach others. She won't become self-supporting. But she has the ambition to learn and the grit to do the work required. Isn't it good that America gave her her chance before it was too late?

GETTING ACROSS

New Yorkers are complaining that while they can travel up and down town without too much inconvenience, they can't get across town. The vast north-and-south traffic holds up the east-and-west traffic. People going several miles have the advantage of residents who only want to cut across a few blocks.

This is a problem found in almost every city, large or small. It will probably have to be solved sooner or later by overpasses and underpasses. Automobiles and trucks and busses cannot be allowed forever to hog the streets. They cannot be stopped frequently enough on the trunk routes to keep the cross traffic moving freely, because that would clog the main thoroughfare traffic. Tunnels under and bridges over, at frequent intervals, are an obvious remedy.

FOOD PRICES.

The Department of Agriculture estimates a rise of 10 per cent in food prices early next year. The supplies of meat, some fruits and vegetables and dairy products will be below average. That alone would make for a slight price increase. Another factor enters. Demand, increased by greater buying power, gives an upward push to prices.

Many family purses will be pinched by this, for there are cases in which incomes have not yet started up, or have not risen far enough to take care of past obligations and extra living costs at the same time. Food prices at present are still 15 to 20 per cent below the pre-depression level. Increases are not really alarming unless they rise faster than income and go beyond the old boom levels.

Wings For Sally

SYNOPSIS: Philip Page, young publisher of the Warrenton Courier has told Sally Warren, the society editor, he loves her, but now he seems cast and impersonal toward her. Wealthy Mary Morris pursues Philip despite his campaign against her property-owning father to improve living conditions. Giles Benton, a detective engaged by Morris, accuses McDonald, a discharged mill worker of firing the Palace theater. He is tried for arson. Philip and Sally, believing McDonald innocent, are fighting to save him.

Chapter 38

McDonald's Trial Opens

THE morning of the trial Philip detained Sally a moment as she was leaving his office with some copy to type. It was the first time he had spoken more than the necessary words to transact the business of the office, the first time since the night she had gone to Hilcrest.

"I shall be at the court house during almost all of the trial," said Philip. "If any news comes in that will be important in the case, I have asked that the message be given to you, and I should like to have you get in touch with me as quickly as possible."

"Of course," said Sally. She still stood where she was, her face slightly averted from him, her hands nervously clutching the papers. A terrible depression had seized her and would not let her go. Philip had spoken to her coldly. Their comradeship was at an end. For days, now, he had been saying to her as plainly as words and manner could say that he wanted nothing more to do with her except in connection with office routine. Tears of helpless self-pity came into Sally's eyes. First she had been deprived of love, now she had lost the only friendship she really valued.

"Sally, what's the matter?" Philip had noticed to her side and she had not noticed, so absorbed was she in her own grief. She looked up at him startled, without thinking to hide the tears.

"Nothing," she said miserably, ashamed of her inability to control her emotion or to explain it away. "If it's anything I can help about, won't you tell me?" asked Philip. In the old tender, solicitous voice. Once Sally would have responded to the voice, but now it seemed to mock the friendship they had felt for each other. Philip's coldness had made her build up between them such a wall of injured pride that he could get nowhere near her. Sally suddenly hated him for being the cause of her tears and hated herself for not being stronger.

"I'm quite all right," she said coldly. "Is there anything further?" "No, that's all," said Philip tonelessly. Sally worked in the outer office all day, impatient that she could not get to the trial, and listening eagerly to the scraps of news that came into the office.

"McDonald hasn't got a chance," said the sports editor. "They've got him where the ball's short." "He's framed, that's what," retorted Lois Hopkins angrily. "If you knew McDonald like I do, you'd know he wouldn't hurt a flea if he could help it."

A Visit To The Jail
 THE argument raged in the office while McDonald stood trial with his liberty, perhaps his life, at stake. Sally concealed a bit of knowledge that she knew would never emerge to damage McDonald. She had recognized McDonald in the driveway of the Morris house, but no one knew he had been there. Sally sat up with a jerk. Giles Benton knew that, but neither her father nor McDonald knew it. They would be unprepared for Giles' accusation!

At lunch time Sally sought out her father. He was surrounded by clerks and reporters, but Sally managed to get him to come with her for a bite to eat. Across the table, she told him her story of the night McDonald had fled from the car lights.

"We'll run down and see McDonald right now," said her father. "You come with me, Sally. This may be important." Sally shrank close to her father as they entered the ill-smelling hallway of the county jail. A fat man with a large iron ring full of jangling keys brought McDonald to them and left him at Warren's request. McDonald looked pale and a broad light of his hair and turned white in the weeks since his imprisonment. When Sally told him of having recognized him, or thinking she did, McDonald listened gravely until she was through.

"What about it, Mac?" asked Mr. Warren, watching him closely. "You did recognize me, Miss Warren," said McDonald simply. "I never thought you did at the time, nor Mr. Benton either, since it was never brought up against me."

"Tell us why you went to the Morris house at midnight," demanded Mr. Warren crisply. "I reckon it'll sound like a crazy reason to you," said McDonald. "Reckon it was crazy, and it'll help to put a rope around my neck, but so help me, God, it's the truth."

"What is the truth?" persisted Mr. Warren. "You recollect, Miss Warren, the night my wife was took to bed off sick and the doctor come and got her and carried her to the hospital?" Sally nodded. "Well, the night I went to Morris's house was took that bad and the doctor set up with her all night. He didn't hold out no hope for her that night. Seemed like she slept like a dead person. That very day Miss Mary Morris sent down a big basket of something to eat, but my wife was too far gone to eat it. Seem like all of a sudden the sight of the young ones eating that stuff, and her laying sick, not able to eat what she was hungry for, made me fighting mad. I says to myself, 'Morris turned me off work and now that my folks is sick and starving his daughter brings me something in a basket. I made up my mind I'd walk up to his house and have my say out to him for once.'"

"You saw Mr. Morris?" questioned Robert Warren eagerly. "No," McDonald shook his head. "I couldn't find nobody. But all of a sudden I heard a dog bark and seen the night watchman's lantern. I lost my nerve then, and started home. They caught me as I was leaving the gate."

"All you can prove is that you were seen leaving the gate," said Mr. Warren. "The next morning Mr. Morris found a threatening letter in his study."

"I wasn't me," said McDonald. "I swear it wasn't." "I believe you," said Sally. She followed her father to the door. Outside, the August sunshine seemed too bright to her eyes, accustomed to the dim light of the jail.

"This thing looks worse every step," said Mr. Warren. "It looks to me as if Philip Page is mistaken for once in his life."

TREATING CHAPPED SKIN.

As the cool weather comes along it so happens that there is less fat under the skin. The production of fat in the skin is at its lowest point during cold weather because there is not the same amount of sweat and oil needed at this time as during hot weather when the sun with its penetrating heat must not be permitted to bake or tan the skin too much.

Then as cold air cannot hold as much moisture as warm air, the cold air of the winter months naturally has a drying effect upon the skin.

This then is the explanation of chapped hands in the cool weather. When the hands (or face) are chapped there are tiny cuts in the skin or mucous membrane so that these little cuts or fissures resemble to some extent the "fissure" type of eczema.

The fissures are painful about the mouth and lips, and as there is less moisture in the air anyway it is only natural for the patient to moisten his lips, which further aggravates the condition.

The treatment of chapped skin is both internal and external; the internal treatment consisting of omitting foods which seem to aggravate the condition together with taking a half teaspoonful of baking soda twice daily.

The external treatment consists of applying a glycerin and boric solution to the parts. Unfortunately the average soap seems to aggravate the condition so that in many cases soap must be entirely avoided. To prevent the chapping and to make up for the lack of fat in the skin during the cool weather any bland fat—lamb's fat—may be rubbed on the skin once a day or two or three times a week.

To take the place of soap a lotion made up of tragacanth, glycerin, boric acid and water suggested by Prof. W. A. Pusey is sometimes used. A teaspoonful of tragacanth, 2 ounces of glycerin, 3 teaspoonfuls of boric acid to one pint of water. This is applied freely to the skin and then wiped off.

The thought then is to try to prevent chapping by following these suggestions:

(a) Dry the skin thoroughly after washing, especially if going out into cold or windy weather.

(b) Don't wash the skin in very cold or very hot water.

(c) Avoid strong alkaline soaps.

(d) Apply fat to the skin from time to time.

MILTON

Milton, Dec. 21—Sunday morning at 10 o'clock a Christmas worship was held in the Milton Methodist Church in place of the regular Sunday school session. The Rev. R. H. Northrop and Miss Lulu Clark had charge of the entertainment and Mrs. G. C. Ferguson, Miss Alice Wood, William Donaldson and William Northrop had charge of the decorations.

A Mid-Hudson Valley Barbers' Association has been formed and began to function December 21. At that time the following rules went into effect: Stores or barber shops will open from 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. on week days; on Saturdays from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m., prices to run according to the group is composed of all barber shops in Milton, Plattekill, Clinton, Highland, Marlborough, Modena and New Paltz.

On Wednesday, December 16, at 7 p. m. Robert H. Wilke, owner and operator of Amateur Radio Station WJSL, and Arthur Bell, a prospective radio amateur, attended the first annual get-together of the radio amateurs of the Hudson valley in Poughkeepsie. The program was preceded by a fine turkey dinner, after which several very interesting speakers gave talks on different phases of amateur radio. The high spot in the program was a lecture and demonstration by Dr. Paul A. Northrop, professor of physics at Vassar College, on modern television. The principles of television were explained and some very interesting demonstrations given. About 60 amateurs were present, representing many different localities in the Hudson valley. This get-together was held under the auspices of the Mid-Hudson Amateur Radio Club.

Edgar M. Clarke of Milton, president of the Central School Board of Education, was a guest speaker Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the Marlborough Boys' Hi-Y Club. Mr. Clarke told the boys about the new Central School, explaining to them the location of the rooms, etc. He also spoke briefly on the compulsory school law telling them that it cost the district 75 cents a day for every child who is absent for any reason except illness.

During the business meeting that preceded the talk Richard Norton was elected treasurer in place of Edward Norrell, who resigned. The speaker was secured by the program chairman, Richard Norton.

Frank Gilbert has been spending several days in New York city. Henry Brooks, Jr., underwent an operation Monday in St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, for a stomach rupture.

Miss Rachel Clarke will close her home after the holidays and with her family, Mrs. Katherine McCord and her two children, Ralph and Ann, will spend the winter in Newburgh where Miss Clarke is a teacher in a school.

Edward Theill left Monday for Florida where he plans to spend the winter.

Miss Rita Abuzzese is home from Cornell University for the holidays. The GHI Scouts will entertain their mothers at a Christmas party Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Birdsell S. Taber.

Washington Daybook

By FRESTON GROVER
 WASHINGTON—South American republics have demonstrated once again their evident conviction that the United States is a grand fellow whose peace proposals should be taken with a grain of salt.

Down across the equator to Buenos Aires went the U. S. delegation with a neutrality pact which it could be pointed to with pride, had "kept us out of war" with Ethiopia and Italy, President Roosevelt followed and was given a demonstration in the Argentine capital that fairly purpled the air with felicitations.

U. S. Backs Down

THEN began the negotiations. Then the United States began to back out of first one position and then another as it found various of the Latin American republics averse to them. Principal agent to compel the United States to back out was Carlos Saavedra-Lamas, Argentine foreign minister, president of the league of nations assembly and Nobel peace prize winner.

The meat of the United States neutrality proposal was contained in a 75 word article providing that in event American nations ducked all mediation proposals and initiated on war with each other, other American nations should bolster their neutrality by refusing to supply the fighters with "arms, ammunition or implements of war."

To ally fears the proposal was supplanting the league of nations, to which Argentina and several other Latin American nations belong.

Turns Out As Expected

A SUBSTITUTE proposal was drawn up under which each nation would decide, when the time came, just how neutral it would be.

In order to give all the American republics a chance to talk over a threat of war within the Americas or a war outside, a "permanent" consultative pact was proposed.

Saavedra-Lamas wrinkled his nose at "permanent" and that word went out also, leaving the conference to consider merely the proposal for consultation in time of trouble here or abroad, together with recommendations that all the republics ratify the several already existing non-aggression and mediation pacts.

And that was almost exactly the progress Latin-American experts in Washington predicted would be made. Just how important such progress is considered here may be told another time.

TALKS TO PARENTS

Fostering Fear
 By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

Scarcely a hospital where children are patients which does not echo with the cries of youngsters on the way to the operating room. Often the operation is nothing more critical than a removal of adenoids or tonsils, but from the commotion which goes on it might be an amputation of an arm or leg.

The emotional outburst is not only an annoyance and hindrance to nurses, surgeons and anesthetists, but a drain on the child's nervous system. Who knows what visions of horror are preying on him, what fears of pain or death?

It is not the child's fault. Left to himself, he faces an operation with the calmness born of ignorance. Unless his mind has been filled with gruesome tales, stories of the operating room, dread of doctors and hospitals, he walks in and takes his medicine like a stoic.

It is generally the parents who are to blame when he cries and acts the part of a coward. Most fathers and mothers seem to feel that hypersensitiveness to a child's pain expresses affection. They do not go so far as to cry or whimper, but they express emotion in long drawn farewells, much last-minute hugging and kissing, assurances to be brave and an attitude of heroic sacrifice. They are hurting the child, not helping him, in thus expressing their love, and the emotion is really a form of self-satisfaction. They themselves like to be martyrs.

It is, of course, equally wrong to promise a child that he will have no pain, or assure him that he is going to an ice cream party. The more calm and matter of fact parents are about the operation, the better. Tonsillectomies are all in the day's work, like colds and bad medicine.

Kiss the child as if he were going for a walk and wave him into the operating room with a smile.

Diggers Find New Relics

in Minnesota Mounds

Minneapolis.—Dr. A. E. Jenks, University of Minnesota anthropologist, who has been excavating the mounds of northern Minnesota, has returned to the university to integrate his findings.

The professor, aided by students and W. P. A. workers, passed the summer digging near Red Lake Falls, Bronson, Malmo and Brown's valley. At the latter place in 1930 he found bones out of which he constructed the Brown's Valley man, whose age was estimated at 8,000 years, and in the same area a few years ago, he found a woman of 2,000 years ago.

The scene of the professor's operations is on the "shore" of what once was Lake Agassiz, a body of water that covered 18,000 square miles following the recession of the Wisconsin glacier.

In the gravel deposits at the lake shore have been found implements which the primitive tribes used in their home making.

Sundown Stories

Packing
 By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

SANTA CLAUS packed the toys into his deep, deep, huge sleigh. He put the things in first that he would deliver last.

The reindeer were jingling their bells, eager to be off.

Great Boy's tail was wagging and he was barking with excitement, running back and forth for Santa, carrying packages in his mouth.

"I'm going to stop off in Fuddle Muddle and get all the presents I finished there. The Fuddle Muddlers will assist me. Oh, it was such a help having that half-way place this year. I could fly down to the cities and villages and get the children's letters and make many extra toys in that empty house."

"Then I could finish many presents which I wanted to leave in toy shops—some for parents and uncles and aunts to give to children, and some for the children to see to they'd know how to describe what they wanted. I'll stop off and get these things, too. Are all the toys in now, Great Boy?"

"Bow-wow, yes!" barked Great Boy.

"Are the candies and fruits and nuts ready for the empty stockings?"

"Bow-wow, yes!" barked Great Boy.

"Are the mittens and sweaters and skates and sleds all ready?"

"Bow-wow, yes!"

"Then we'll be off. Goodbye, Great Boy. I'll see you Christmas morning!"

Great Boy wagged his tail with a special Christmas-time wag (even more than ever) and barked: "Merry-bow-wow Christmas!"

Tomorrow—"First Stop."

Because of colds the average worker in this country loses anywhere from one to three days a year.

Homemade Playthings

The youngster learns more through play than through any other single activity. Many toys and play materials may be made at home, and members of the family can help to convert waste materials, such as boxes and baskets, into attractive toys.

A new Connell bulletin suggests toys that help children physically and promote creative and dramatic abilities. Directions on how to make them are given.

LA GUERRA E FINITA!
and Italian soldiers march into Addis Ababa

By VOLTA TORREY
(AP Feature Service Writer)
(Fifth in A Series)

Benito Mussolini, in May, stood on a familiar balcony hoarsely shouting

"La guerra e finita!"
The chiefs and rases are defeated—cheers punctuated almost every phrase—"and the fugitives do not count for anything."

Foremost of the fugitives was the Negus Negusti, still determined to see if the statesmen at Geneva counted for anything.

But Addis Ababa bedlam had ended; the dead in Africa's mud had written their share of history. Mobs already were burning churches in Spain.

Americans, as the woods came alive with the murmur and sound of spring, and the streets echoed with the rhythm and zest of swing, went about their housecleaning.

The Law Catches Up

Out of a New Orleans apartment house had stepped two men and a woman. Out of hiding had stepped J. Edgar Hoover's squad. Without one shot being fired, Alvin Karpis had been caught. The following week the law seized William Mahan (in San Francisco), Harry Campbell (in Toledo) and Thomas J. Robinson (in Glendale, Calif.) Those names were the last on the major public enemy list.

Headline scanners in May also saw that:

The supreme court knocked out the Guffey coal act, splitting 5-1-3 (it was that complicated).

Dr. Townsend took a walk, out of a congressional investigation.

A Detroit WPA worker died because Black Legion members heard false gossip that he beat his wife.

Britain's Colonial Secretary Thomas resigned because his name had been bandied about in a budget leak scandal.

The Hindenburg Speeds Over

Determinedly a man in a Jersey field waved a red flag. He might as well have been trying to stop a bull. Straight at him came the biggest thing ever sent aloft by mankind.

Ropesa biased out, but because of the premature arrival there were not enough hands to seize them. To save the few who did, as the dawn winds shifted treacherously, newspapermen sprang forward.

With record speed, 187 persons had come from Europe on the Hindenburg.

A million or more marchers in Moscow stared into the May sky, too, and saw what foreign correspondents called the biggest war fleet ever in the air at once. Leaders were also about to show the Soviet masses a new constitution.

Literary Event

"The shining literary event of the year," however, according to "The New Yorker," was not the birth of a book but the death of A. E. Housman—who published only two books, "A Shropshire Lad" in 1896 and "Last Poems" in 1922. You may recall:

"The troubles of our proud and angry dust
Are from eternity and cannot fall.
Bear them we can and if we can, we must!

Shoulder the sky, my lad, and drink your ale!"

Zionbeck's landlady was injured, he was arrested. Fifty-two reform school girls went to the White House as Mrs. Roosevelt's guests. Gracia Garbo granted an interview—"Oh," she said, "Isn't life full of romance?"

The $3,000,000,000 Franzler-Lemke farm debt refinancing bill failed to pass. Leon Blum, soon to be France's premier, deplored the war debt "misunderstanding."

Gran Chaco army chiefs won control of Bolivia—as their former enemies had in Paraguay three months earlier.

Bold Venture won the Kentucky Derby. The Queen Mary warmed up for an Atlantic race.

New York's Governor Lehman alarmed Democrats, encouraged Republicans, by announcing he would not run again.

Legion Auxiliary Meeting Held Friday

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held Friday, December 18, at 8 o'clock in the Memorial Building. Mrs. Harry Whitney presiding.

Mrs. Jane McManus, welfare chairman, reported that during the past month clothing, groceries, a bed complete with spring and mattress, two cribs, a congoium rug and several small rugs had been given to needy families; the total expenditure $82.95.

Mrs. Margaret McManus, rehabilitation chairman, reported activities amounting to $28.

Mrs. Roy Jacob announced 35 paid up members to date and the awarding of the membership prize to Mr. Margaret McManus. The prize, donated by the president, will be presented at the next monthly meeting. Plans are being made for a bingo party soon after the new year. Mrs. Christopher Roche, chairman.

Mrs. Ashton Hart of High Woods was appointed Americanism chairman.

Plans are under way for a clam chowder sale to be held Friday, January 2.

Raymond Woodard reported on the activities of the clothing committee of the Mayor's Christmas (their program. Auxiliary members don't think unthinkingly of their time and energies in the completion of this share in this work. An expression of appreciation was given to members who have generously contributed hours of service.

George Grinton donated $3 to the rehabilitation fund, which was accepted with grateful appreciation. Proceeds of the "Christmas gifts" sold $7.50 for the general fund.

It was unanimously voted to adopt Ward D-2 at U. S. Government Hospital, No. 98, at Castle Point. This means that hereafter the contributions of Kingston Unit, aside from customary assessments, will be used in that ward and also to present 25 veterans are patients there, many of them seriously ill. It is planned to send them Christmas cards to each of them.

On Sunday afternoon, December 20, Kingston Unit took part in the Christmas program presented to the patients at Castle Point by the Third and North Districts of the American Legion and Auxiliary. Parking space was at a premium as several hundred Legionnaires and Auxiliary members and their families gathered er gifts. At 3 p. m., the Ninth District put on a program of entertainment in the recreation hall. Others distributed Christmas packages of

Local Legion Sets Membership Record And Hears Ball Total

The regular monthly meeting of Kingston Post, American Legion, Friday night at the Memorial Building was attended by 70 ex-service men, who heard reports by various committees, to Commander William T. Roedel, presiding officer.

After prayer, led by Chaplain Clarence Brown, recitation of the preamble to the Legion constitution, and presentation of Christmas gifts in the form of membership cards to sick Legionnaires unable to work, the committee on the Christmas tree party reported. The program, according to Morton Finch and Harry Whitely, will consist of recitations, distribution of candy and fruits, songs, dances etc. The date of the party is Tuesday night, December 23 starting at 7 o'clock.

The Christmas tree for the party was donated by Legionnaire Jack Rabin. He furnished the ornaments too. He received a rising vote of thanks for his generosity. It was moved to write Legionnaire Rufus Van Aken a letter for his contribution of $5 to the Christmas fund.

John Melville, chairman of the membership committee, reported 533 members, the highest mark ever reached by the post in December.

Leah O'Brien of Woodstock, county chairman of membership, commended Kingston Post, saying it had inspired the other posts in the county to forge ahead in membership.

It was voted to donate $10 to the Mayor's Christmas cheer fund and donations of $5 to the Christmas Seal Committee, Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, and the Sacred Heart Orphanage.

Vice Commander Harry Kirchner rendered a report on the Victory Ball. Receipts were $5,231.15; disbursements $2,018.02 and the net profit $3,213.13 with $73.50 still outstanding.

The auditors on Victory Ball accounts, Mayor Conrad J. Holselman and ex-Mayor Eugene B. Carey, both past commanders of the post gave their report, finding the records correct and true in all respects. Commander Roedel discharged the committee with thanks.

Past Commander John J. Finerty, Jr., presented a request from the citizens' committee, composed of E. Frank Flanagan, N. Levan Haver, M. H. Herzog, asking that the Legion consider reducing the revenue they receive from the Kingston Colonial basketball team. Legionnaire Finerty said in behalf of the committee that they had investigated the books of the team and found it was losing money and that unless something were done to lessen expenses the team would have to discontinue.

The American Legion has a contract with Manager Frank Morgenweck, and the matter was referred to the executive committee and athletic officer with power.

Comrade Nelson Snyder invited the post to join the inter-fraternal association, and this matter also was referred to the athletic officer.

The post went on record as favoring the hiring of men over 40 by industry. A resolution will be presented to the County Legion to be passed along to the state and national body. Kingston Post will place a wreath on the grave of Past Commander

Thomas T. Coughlin at Christmas. He was the second commander of the post and is the only deceased one on the list of Legionnaires who headed the local post.

Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin delivered an interesting address on the duties of citizens and members of the Legion. Legionnaire Cashin was given a rising vote of thanks.

After the meeting there was an enjoyable social. Cigars were given out as a gift from Lester Barth, general custodian of the Memorial Building. Coffee and doughnuts were served. There was a dance, and "Home, Sweet Home" was not played until 1 a. m.

Gridiron Club Shows
4 Candidates How To Take It, Like It

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP) - The Gridiron Club's satirical review of the 1936 election and the general political scene, witnessed by four of the presidential candidates, left some red faces today, but most of them bore broad grins in recollection of the lampooning.

At the club's semi-annual dinner last night, President Roosevelt saw himself depicted as running for a ninth term in 1968 and predicting a balanced budget soon.

A scene of ancient Rome showed him as "F. D. R., Imp." while in the Elzevirdian finale he was portrayed as a master showman.

Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, the defeated Republican candidate, witnessed a theatrical autopsy on the rigid form of the G. O. P., which disclosed an appendix "tied in Knox," a full dinner pail in the stomach, and a "Ham Fish bone" in the larynx.

After these objects were removed, the G. O. P. arose and announced he would be able to run in 1940.

Norman Thomas and Earl Browder, the Socialist and Communist candidates, were among the 400 guests of the organization of Washington newspapermen. Both the President and Landon spoke "off the record."

Landon, after a day in the capital during which he called at the White House and Republican headquarters, left for his home early today.

Highlights of the show in which club members took all the roles, included these skits:

New Democratic congressmen learned to say "Yes, Sir," with a promise that if they supported all his bills, Mr. Roosevelt would call them by their first names.

To Wagnerian music, Al Smith was borne in on a stretcher. Restoration of his brown derby revived him, and he sang, "He Turned the Tables on Me."

At a meeting of the Prophets' Union, Elieha related how he fed 100 men with 20 loaves, but Isalah replied, "We now have a fellow named Harry Hopkins who feeds 20 men with 100 loaves."

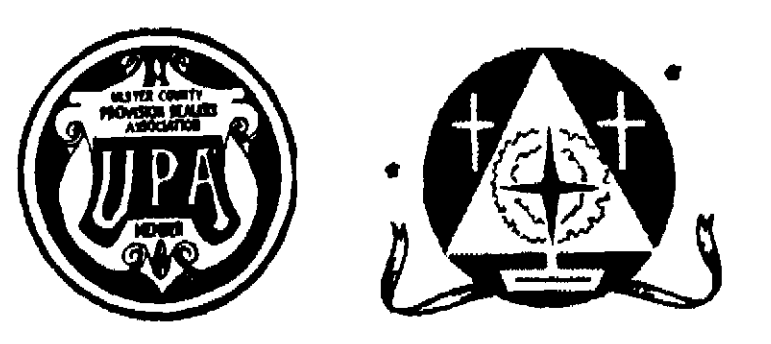

"James A. Farley couldn't qualify as a major prophet," Isalah said, because all he did "was count the names on the payroll." Another skit included a "good feeling" duet—by proxy—by Farley and John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Rexford Tugwell, entering the masses business, gained admission into the Union League Club, despite his bright red undershirt.

During the evening Mrs. Roosevelt gave her annual party at the White House for the "gridiron widows," whose husbands were at the banquet.

Newspapermen presented a stunt program featured by a triple production of Romeo and Juliet: Ethel duPont and Franklin Roosevelt, Jr.; William Randolph Hearst and John Boettiger, the Duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Simpson. Mrs. Roosevelt gave an "off the record" stunt.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Plugged His Bankroll

Owensboro, Ky.—Filled with the Christmas spirit and temporarily off duty, Fireman J. C. Thornton parked his car in front of a department store and went shopping. A few hours later he paid a fine of $2 in police court. The charge?—Parking beside a fire plug.

Late Shopper

Wheeling, W. Va.—Will Costello, serving a sentence for shoplifting, won a Christmas parole but was back in jail again in less than an hour. Officers said they met him leaving a store with a suit of pajamas and an alarm clock under his coat.

Waiter, the Check

Hollister, Calif.—Ten years ago John Nordela, then a cafe operator, loaned $300 to Richard Laval, an employee. Laval left town next day.

Yesterday he came back, smiling broadly.

"A Christmas present for you," he said, proffering a check for $500. The extra $200 was interest. Nordela, now a waiter, promptly cashed it.

Ticket Taker

Houston, Tex.—A business man who asked his name not be used picked up a hitch-hiker near the state penitentiary.

"Just finished a stretch for picking pockets," said his guest.

Uncasy, the motorist stepped on the gas. A highway patrolman stopped him, wrote out a ticket. As he drove on, the hitch-hiker took the ticket, tore it up.

"Hey," objected his host, "don't you know he's got a carbon copy of that?"

"That's okay, buddy," said the hitch-hiker, "while he was talking to you, I lifted his ticket book."

AT WHITE HOUSE, AFTER ALL

Governor Landon was in a jovial mood as he stood on the White House steps before entering to visit with President Roosevelt, his conqueror in the recent election. President Sends Greetings to Scouts

The Boy Scouts of America have received from their Honorary President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, the following word of greeting for the Christmas season:

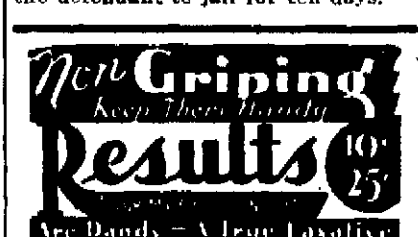

"To the Boy Scouts of America: Yours has been a worthy record upon the pages of which are written courage, dependability, faith, loyalty and service. You have won a signal place in the life of the youth of America. As today you are the Boy Scouts of America, so in the years to come may you be the men to whom your country can look for the realization of unselfish devotion and civic righteousness. I wish you all a Merry Christmas.

BOOKS, VARIOUS ACTIVITIES AT STONE RIDGE LIBRARY

Stone Ridge, Dec. 22.—The Stone Ridge Library has had a most satisfactory year and it is growing steadily richer in friends as well as in books.

The membership drive totaled 111 members from Stone Ridge, High Falls and Cortland.

Among the new books purchased during the fall are: "Around the World in Eleven Years," "Beyond Sing the Woods," "Gone With the Wind," "San Felipe," "Wake Up and Live," "Magnificent Hoax," "Listen For a Lonesome Dream," "Enos Mills of the Rockies," "Mrs. Meigs and Mr. Cunningham," "Drums Along the Mohawk," "Green Gates," "American Flags," "Enchanted Voyage," "Man From the Northlands," "Last Wagon Train," "American Doctor's Odyssey," "White Banners,"

"Great-Aunt Lavinia," "Andubon," "White-oak Harvest," "No Place Like Home," "Keeping Mentally Fit," "No Hero This," and "Discovering the Genius Within You."

Among the new juvenile books are: "Mongli Stories" by Kipling, "Luck of Lowry," "Fairy Fleet," "Caddie Woodlawn," "Anne of Windy Poplars," "Anne Alive," "Moccasins on the Trail," "Mystic Ball," "Will in the Woods," "Hog Goes Down Stream," "Hidden Staircase," "Shuttle and Sword," "On the Golden Trail," and "Lawrence in the Blue."

The library is open on Wednesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock, Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, and Saturday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Now that the evenings are long many more people will be making use of the library and those who have not frequented the library for some time will be delighted to see the large variety of books that have been added to the shelves.

LESTER ROOSA SPEAKS TO STONE RIDGE "MOTHERS CLUB"

Stone Ridge, Dec. 22.—The Mothers Club of District No. 5 met at the schoolhouse on Friday afternoon and had as their guest speaker, Lester Roosa, superintendent of schools, in the place of Hartley Tanner who served the district for a number of years.

Mr. Roosa spoke on the test that is to be given the pupils of the rural schools as well as in centralized and city schools. Mr. Roosa feels, as do many others, that too much stress is being placed on the results of state examinations and not enough on the class work rating by the teachers.

These tests will have around 60 questions on each subject which will give a wider variety and better opportunity to test the pupils' knowledge on the entire subject.

From these tests the teachers can obtain the weak spots of the pupils in the various subjects and give special drill where most needed and thereby help each child to have a more balanced education. A permanent record of each pupil will be held at the school from year to year and a duplicate sent with them if they change schools or enter high school. These reports will have a health chart, attendance marks, teachers' ratings, achievement tests and Regents examinations, and should be of great aid to any teacher who is receiving a new pupil into her class.

Mr. Roosa passed samples of the test books and report cards and answered questions concerning them.

It was regretted that perhaps due to the usual rush of the holiday season many of the mothers were not present.

The club voted to pay for use of the Grange Hall for Christmas entertainment to be held Tuesday evening, December 22. They also voted to give the teachers money to buy more books for the school library.

Christmas Gifts For Children.

Rabin's, Kingston's credit store at 45 North Front street, has erected a generous size Christmas tree in its store with all the colorful and appropriate trimmings one is accustomed to see. In addition to that the tree is lavishly bedecked with a rich and bounteous collection of lollipops, colorful little houses in paste board cleverly executed in many designs, and an enormous stack of amusing blow-outs whistles in alluring patterns. The children may make their own choice of whatever strikes their fancy. This is free to all of Kingston's tots, who are invited as Rabin's guests. The parents bringing the wee ones are under no obligation to purchase.

The U. S. department of agriculture reports 189,000 acres of Louisiana farm lands are being improved.

Will Execute 6 Convicts Together

Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP).—Warden Lewis E. Lawes determined today that, unless relieved, six men condemned to death for a single slaying must die together in Sing Sing prison the week of January 4.

Some persons, who called six executions in one night a ghastly performance had suggested, he said, that three men be sent to the electric chair at the appointed time and three on another night.

In rejecting the suggestion, the warden pointed out that all were involved in the same crime and added, "It would only mean that if we make two affairs of it, we would have to bring everybody connected with the execution back here a second night."

The six, convicted of the murder of Edwin Esposito in a Brooklyn holdup, are Dominick Zizzo, 27, Salvatore Scata, 19, Theodore Dionne, 31, Eugene Bruno, 23, Joseph Bologna, 24, and Sam Kimmel, 22.

Salvador Deaths Now Put at 250

San Salvador, El Salvador, Dec. 22 (AP).—Rescuers raked the ruins of earthquake-ravaged San Vicente today for bodies, as the official death toll estimate remained at 250. There were at least 800 injured, it was reported, in the series of shocks which leveled most of San Vicente over the week-end. Relief and rescue work directed in person by Minister of Interior Calderon, with a staff of Red Cross doctors and nurses ministering to the wounded and ill. The menacing volcano, Santa Ana, which erupted earlier was said to have subsided as villagers straggled back to the ruins of their homes.

Six Men Sentenced On Still Charges

New York, Dec. 21 (Special)—In a bewildering session of the Federal Court today a Kingston man, another resident of Ulster county, and four men of Orange county were sentenced after they were found guilty of conspiracy to distill alcohol in a barn on the Frank E. Horton farm. After passing sentence, Federal Judge William Bondy heard a number of neighbors of the defendants, who journeyed here to urge the court to leniency. Then he withdrew the sentences and announced that the case would be called again next Monday.

His purpose in doing this was to pass less severe sentences upon some of the defendants. Assistant United States Attorney Nicholas T. Rogers blocked the judge's attempt by informing him that the statute books carry a mandatory minimum sentence of six months for the offense.

The original sentences gave John Newsinger, alias John Nelson, of Kingston, six months and Leo Tabacchi of Rosendale a suspended sentence of a year and a day. Tabacchi had pleaded guilty and testified as a government witness at the trial last week. Melvin Simmons of Pine Bush received nine months. Frank Horton and Raymond C. Horton, both of Burnside, and Clarence Fenner of Campbell Hall, each received six months.

The court, in reconsidering these sentences, voiced the opinion that the case was a peculiar one. It was tried, he felt, in a strange manner. To the assistant district attorney, he said: "I believe that one circumstance more than anything else contributed to the jury's finding these men guilty. You probably know what I am referring to. My intention is to put this sentencing over for one week and in the meantime confer with the United States attorney about it."

It was evident from the court's prior remarks that he would have preferred to grant suspended sentences to all except Simmons, who has a previous record. He asked Mr. Rogers if he would consent but Mr. Rogers said that he could not.

A deterrent is necessary, your honor," he said. "Burnside is one of the most notorious still centers we have to deal with. Recently a still of 10,000 gallon capacity was found within a mile of there. Another was located even nearer by. The cost of tracking them down and the loss of revenue to the government before they are raided costs the United States a large sum of money."

Asked what his recommendations were in the case, he said two years for Simmons and 18 months for each of the others, except for Tabacchi for whom a suspended sentence was suggested.

John Newsinger, who used the name John Nelson when arrested, was described by the district attorney as an expert on still set-ups, known as a still rigger. The others, he said, all had active parts in the operation of the still.

Abraham Solomon, addressing the court in behalf of the defendants, aroused the ire of the court when he said it was a sad commentary when a group of innocent men can be found guilty and sentenced to jail. "And your honor knows that that can happen and does happen."

"In that case," retorted the court, "if I were the attorney for innocent men and they were found guilty I know what my feelings would be."

Solomon went on to say that Joseph Hawkins of Middletown, who at the time was living on the Burnside farm, deliberately bit the hand that fed him by testifying falsely and maliciously at the trial.

"Almost every bit of testimony produced by the government at the trial was perjurious," he added.

The court at this point advised the attorney that the less he said in favor of his clients the better they would fare.

The Rev. Mr. Longacre, a Baptist clergyman of Burnside, addressed Judge Bondy. He said, "No one is more interested in the good name of Burnside than I am. I feel, however, that these men are not guilty but are merely the goats in the case."

Cantine Gets Six Months.
New York, Dec. 21 (Special)—A six months sentence was imposed in Federal Court today on Nelson Cantine, who pleaded guilty to operating a still on the Emily Cantine Farm, Lomontville Road, Marlborough. The still was of 65 gallon capacity. Cantine also had in his possession, ready to distill, 50 gallons of mash. He was arrested in August when government agents made a raid on the farm.

Machine Invades Sugar Beet Fields

Slim fingers of glistening steel may soon slice through the damp earth of the nation's sugar beet fields, competing with thousands of Mexicans and Spanish-Americans who for 40 years have harvested the beets. The new harvester, experimented with for five years, now appears "practical" and probably will be manufactured in quantity production "comparatively soon," says the U. S. agricultural engineer who tested it recently near Fort Collins, Colo. Here is what he saw:

DOWN TO EARTH
Its long, sloping snout scrapes the ground as the new sugar beet harvester ploughs down the field behind a tractor.

GOING UP
Pulled from the ground, the beets are drawn up an incline and topped by steel fingers.

BY MACHINE
This is how the beets look after the machine gets through.

BY HAND
This is the way the beets are topped by human workers.

WHITHER BOUND?
With anxious eyes, a typical beet field family considers the future. The machine, it is estimated, will do 12 men's work for $7 an acre—a saving of $4 over cost for manpower.

Santa and the Viking

BY SIGMUND ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has set to work for the doll for the Ice Queen. The Viking's daughter, whom Santa has rescued from the Ice Queen's palace.

Chapter 14.

The Ice Queen's Doll.

When Santa ordered the doll to work, there were only a few days left until Christmas, just as there are only a few left today.

And over in the sunniest corner of the toy shop Santa and his cleverest fairies labored to make a doll as big as Gudrun for the Ice Queen.

Gudrun still sleeps. The real little Gudrun will sleep. Santa looked at the doll and the doll looked at Santa.

After some time Santa shouted: "See! He's holding a piece of fine silk in a delicate pink shade. This doll will be made of the best material we usually use," he said. "It'll make this doll of silk stuffed with soft cotton so the doll will be round and soft just like a little girl."

But when Santa, alone the doll up, what happened? She slumped to the floor like a bag of old scraps. "My Gudrun!" said Santa. "Of course, she's too soft to stand up. My, my the Ice Queen will never be satisfied!" He set down the doll and he wouldn't eat his dinner. But there was help on the road about which I will tell you tomorrow.

Tomorrow: The Fairy Queen Comes Back.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Stocks took a turn for the better in today's market and many of yesterday's fallen leaders rallied fractions to 3 or more points.

Although the ticket tape was pressed occasionally in the first hour or so, dealings slowed appreciably later. Offerings were scarce near the final period and most of the favorites held around their best levels of the day. Transfers approximated 1,800,000 shares.

While there was apparently less nervousness over auto parts and other strikes the situation was still viewed as a retarding market influence.

Bonds improved. Many staples, including copper, continued to surge forward to new recovery peaks. Wheat, however, dipped on federal predictions of a larger than expected winter crop.

Conspicuous on the comeback were shares of Anaconda, Kennecott, Inspiration, Phelps Dodge, American Smelting, International Nickel, Calumet & Hecla, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Youngtown, Sheet and Tube, Vanadium, Chrysler, American Telephone, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Texas Corp., Standard Oil of Indiana and California, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, American Radiator, Goodrich, Commercial Solvents, Stone & Webster, Wesson Oil & Snowdrift and Yellow Truck. In a rather slim group were N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, General Electric, du Pont and North American.

Needes Truck Not In Monday Crash

Reports today that one of the Needes Express trucks from Kingston was smashed in a railroad accident, Monday night, and a local truckman killed, and another injured, were branded as false by the concern at its office, 25 South Manor avenue.

The Needes concern said there was an accident involving a truck of the Textile Transportation Co. of Paterson, which handles some business for it on the Jersey end, and that one man was killed and another injured, but they were not Kingstonians.

"The truck was not ours," was the Needes reply. "And we don't know the names of the men in the accident."

PHYSICIAN, X-RAY MACHINE SOLVE MYSTERY OF WHICH CHRISTMAS CAKE HELD BOLT

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 22 (AP)—The mystery of which Christmas fruit cake had a metal bolt in it was solved today, with the aid of a physician and his X-ray machine.

Mrs. Louis H. Hake, who baked 13 cakes, discovered that a quarter-inch bolt from her electric mixer was missing after she mailed one cake to a sister and had the others wrapped for mailing.

A thorough search convinced her the bolt was in one of the cakes. Telephoning Dr. G. G. Stonehouse, she asked:

"How would you like to X-ray a dozen cakes?"

"I'll try anything once," the surprised doctor replied.

As a nurse and Mrs. Hake watched anxiously, Dr. Stonehouse lined up the cakes for X-ray treatment. The current was turned on and in cake No. 3 was the missing bolt.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

For several weeks now, Manhattan traffic has been moving faster, especially that traveling east and west. The gain in time was brought about merely by speeding up the traffic lights. Under the old timing, it took two full minutes to complete the cycle. Traffic moved north and south 80 seconds. Then there was a five-second clearance interval after which traffic moved east and west 30 seconds. That was followed by another five-second clearance interval. With the new timing, traffic moves north and south 56 seconds and east and west, 26 seconds, while the clearance interval has been cut down to four seconds. Thus, instead of 60 changes an hour, there are now 80. Under the old timing, it was quicker to walk to and from certain points, for instance between Times Square and Grand Central, than it was to travel in any other manner except by subway.

While the pedestrian comes out a poor second now, even when moving across town, he gets a break that he didn't in the past. Speaking as one who has to make numerous hurried journeys to various points in mid-town, a minute and 20 seconds wait at an intersection seemed an eternity. In fact, at times I have felt that I have waited at a busy intersection long enough to have grown a long white beard. Now with 10 more changes an hour to cross, there is less temptation to brave fate by threading through traffic rather than die of inaction until the light changes. Police say drivers feel the same way. Thus, by cutting down the number of those who seek to beat the light, there is less traffic danger.

Trouble arose when Walter O'Keefe began his rehearsals for his new air program. It was necessary to simulate the sound of a nickel dropping into a telephone coin box. Sound men and National Broadcasting company engineers wrestled with the problem for quite a while without getting anywhere at all. Finally O'Keefe took a hand. All he did was have the telephone company send up a coin box and at the proper time, dropped his nickel. Thus, there was perfect simulation.

Frank Thomas, who at the ripe age of fifteen has appeared in seven plays and two movies and who became a professional actor at the age of ten, doesn't care for poetry. Previous to his appearance in "Wednesday's Child" several seasons ago, he had to learn a part with 67 "sides" in just four days—a feat he accomplished with ease. The day following the opening of that play he got into trouble at the Professional Children's school because he couldn't memorize two verses of "The Ancient Mariner."

The reason, he explained, was that he understood his part in the play but he couldn't understand the Mariner. His earnings have been large and they are all in the bank. He intends to keep them there so that when he grows up he can choose the parts he wants to play rather than be forced to take any that are offered him. Wise kid.

The new contract of George Burns and Gracie Allen with Paramount calls for a four-months vacation. They will spend it in New York acting in musical comedy. It's really George's idea. Playing tank towns over the country in vaudeville for years, he cherished the ambition to play Broadway in musical comedy. Success on the radio and in pictures followed—their salary on their new air program is reported to be $12,500 a performance—but not musical comedy.

That didn't stump them, however. No one else having come forward, they are to put on the show themselves. It may be a somewhat costly "vacation" but possibly it will be worth it.

May Erect New Department Store

An interesting rumor, that has been gaining volume in uptown business circles during the past few days, is to the effect that a new department store will be erected in Kingston in the near future if plans now under way to secure capital prove successful.

The story is that the new store will be conducted as a complete, up-to-date department store and will be located in the uptown business district.

Upwards of $100,000 is named as the amount involved in the proposition and it is claimed that part of that sum has already been pledged by Kingston business men.

Present plans are for a large one-story and basement building, so constructed that additional stores can be built should the success of the venture warrant it.

Archbishop of York Censures Edward

The Duke of Windsor's first Christmas present arrived today—a small, heavily insured package from Cannes, where Wallis Simpson is waiting until they can be wed.

What present he might have received from the woman for whom he gave up the throne of England was not learned, but its size and shape suggested it was a ring or other jewelry.

Another gift will be a photograph of the Baroness de Rothschild, his American-born hostess who has been "Kitty" to his "Eddie" since they pledged everlasting friendship in "Bruderschaft" drinks.

The portrait of the baroness, however, will be no surprise as Windsor asked that it be taken especially for him.

Christmas on a baronial scale was already in full swing at the Chateau, huge loads of flowers, laurel, mistle toe and evergreen trees have arrived. The great hall of the Chateau was lavished with the decorations, many of which Edward, poised on a step-ladder, helped the baroness put up.

Windsor finished unpacking the carload of luggage that arrived for him on Monday. The first item he delved for was a battered grey fedora hat, and the second was a quantity of English whisky.

Meanwhile his extensive training for the Baron Eugene de Rothschild's annual Christmas bowling competition was not going so well.

His secretary beat him 110 to 90, and then the pinboy gave both a lesson after which the lad "vouchsafed."

"The King shows great promise," To Enzesfelders Edward still is "King" rather than "Duke of Windsor."

Yesterday evening, Edward and his secretary took a cross country hike during which the Duke vainly attempted to climb a pine tree and, scoring a bridge, tried to jump across a six-foot brook.

The former ruler missed his footing and plumped into the mud.

When he returned to the Chateau wearing his favorite fedora drawn low over his eye and his light top coat covered with mud, a houseboy failed to recognize him and refused to let him enter.

"Don't you know who I am?" Windsor asked in good German.

The boy paled and trembled but was quickly reassured by Windsor who philosophically remarked every body makes mistakes.

Sahler House to Become Apartment

The large 18-room dwelling located on the corner of Maiden Lane and Fair street, known for years as the "Sahler House," has been purchased from William D. Brinnler by Mrs. Minnie Post of South Norwalk, Conn., as an apartment house project.

The new owner will take possession on January 1, and will begin immediate remodeling. Mrs. Post expects to have a very modern apartment house upon completion of her plans.

No City League Bowling This Week

Redeemers Upset Port Ewen, Clinton Aces and Missions Win

One of the biggest surprises of the season occurred Monday night in the Church Basketball League at the Y. M. C. A. when the league leading Redeemers trimmed the Port Ewen quintet, defending champions, by the top-sided score of 50-13. In the game preceding this, the Clinton Avenue Aces displayed fine form, again taking the First Dutch into camp, while in the finals the Missions evened the score with their rivals, the Comforter Aces, by scoring a 20-16 victory.

The Redeemers' mighty machine clicked in high speed as it crumbled a once mighty Port Ewen five. Leading 21-11 at the half, the leaders ran wild to outscore their opponents 29 to 2 after the recess. Al Bruce led the victors to their eighth straight victory, scoring 13 points, while Ed Bock and Pete Schline dropped in 12. Sam Messinger added 11 markers.

Playing their third game in the last four days, the Clinton Avenue Aces continued their fine playing to trounce the Dutchmen by the score of 39-16. Led by Cowboy Every, who sank 10 points, the Aces built up a 14-7 lead at the half and then scored at will after the recess. Myers and Haines added to the winners' total with nine and eight points, respectively.

The Comforter Missions avenged a previous defeat by scoring a victory over the Comforter Aces. The Missions held a 5-5 lead at half-time. Andy Dykes led the scorers with nine points. Jack Purvis scored 7 points to lead the Aces.

"New Boom" in Nearly All Sports Most Conspicuous Trend of 1936

By ALAN GOULD
New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Continuation of the "new boom" in nearly every branch of sports, accompanied by more open and widespread commercialization of amateur talent, furnished the loudest keynote detected this year by our sports-writing associates.

Expressing their assorted views in the sixth annual Associated Press Sports Poll, 23 press-box observers cited bigger crowds and "bater" as the most conspicuous trend of 1936.

They called attention to such all-time attendance marks as $2,000 for the Kentucky Derby and $18,000 for the Indianapolis auto race. The south and east counted their biggest football turnouts in history, 48,000 at Rouse H. Field at Louisiana State-Palace, and 165,000 at Philadelphia for Army-Navy.

In major league baseball, a new National League mark of $4,417 was reached for a Giant-Cardinal doubleheader in September, while the highest crowd in World Series history, 33,662, viewed the fourth game at the Yankee Stadium.

Chief baseball trends otherwise included a revival in many minor league territories, the Pacific Coast among them, and the decision of the American League to follow the National's lead in permitting night games.

Fourteen sports editors emphasized the college football trend toward "more open and honest handling of the problems of subsidizing and recruiting."

Linked with college problems was

A Heavy Demand By Mike Jacobs for Louis in Garden

Mike Jacobs, has agreed to let Joe Louis fight Bob Pastor in Madison Square Garden sometime in January, but he is imposing certain restrictions that will scarcely be acceptable to James J. Johnston, the Garden promoter. Pastor can have the bout with the Detroit Bomber, but he will have to sign up with Jacobs and his Twentieth-Century organization for three years following his battle with the negro in the event that he defeats the colored fighter or even makes a creditable showing with the Detroit boxer.

In other words, Madison Square Garden would have to relinquish whatever contracts they might hold with Pastor or his manager following the bout with Louis.

In a few brief words, James J. Johnston has advised Jacobs that his demands in the premises are all out of proportion and that no level-headed person could possibly accede to such outrageous requests. Johnston and the Garden are willing to agree to anything reasonable to get the match with the colored fighter feeling that Pastor can dispose of Louis just as easily as he did Ray Impellitteri in the Garden last Friday night.

The Garden management also is eager to know why it is that Jacobs and his associates are trying to run out of a match with Pastor, to say nothing of drawing the color line when the colored heavyweights file their challenges.

Champ Steele Boxes Gorilla Jones, Jan. 1

Chicago, Dec. 22 (AP)—Freddie Steele, world's middleweight champion, boxing for the first time away from his native Pacific coast, will get $20,000 for defending his title against the Akron, O., negro, Gorilla Jones, in a ten-round battle in Milwaukee New Year's day.

It will be the richest purse this gifted, two-fisted youngster from Tacoma, Wash., has received since they first pulled the boxing gloves on him when he was a lad of 14. That was nine years ago.

The bout, with tickets selling from $1 to $7, may draw a $40,000 gate. Steele's guarantee of $20,000 will be posted with the commission in advance.

Steele, training in Chicago for a few days, declared he was determined to knock out Jones because the one-time champion, has "gotten into his hair" by staying the limit in two previous ten-round encounters on the coast. It will be Steele's first defense of his title since he won it from Babe Risko in Seattle last July with receipts at $67,000.

1936 The Year In Sports Tennis

By BOB CAVAGNARO
(Third in a Series)

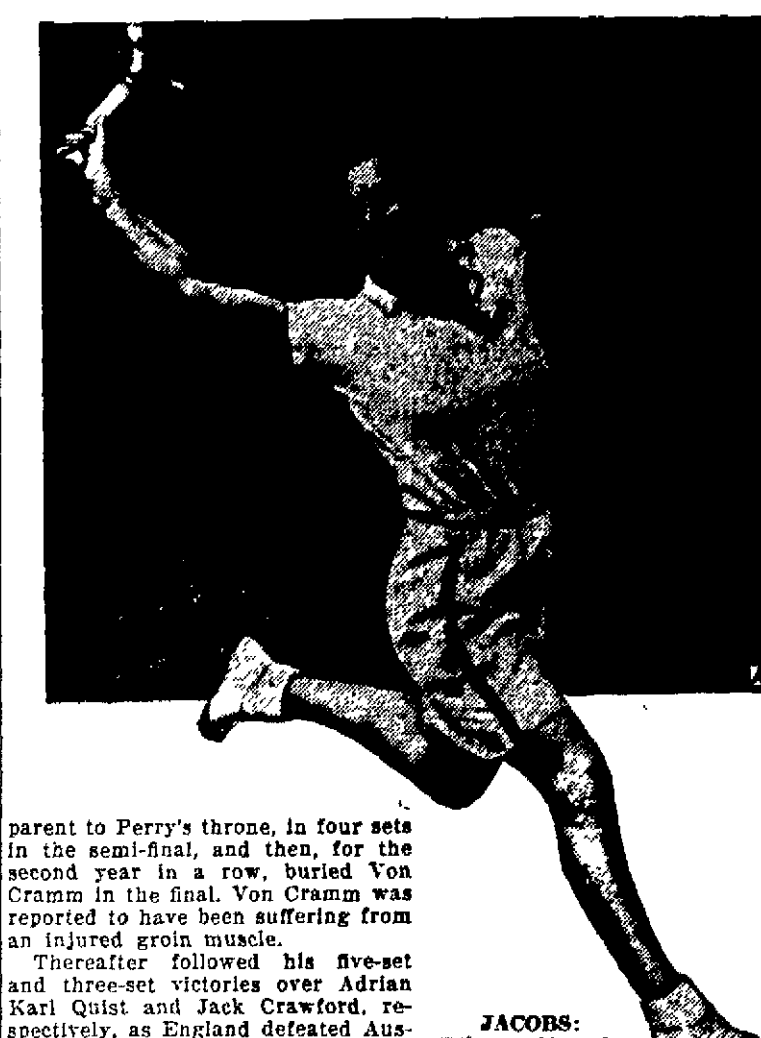

New York (AP)—Fred Perry regained the world tennis crown this year, then abdicated.

Coming back after suffering an injury to his back in the 1935 American semi-finals, Perry won the all-England championship for the third straight year, the American title for the third time in four years, and drove England safely through to her third straight defense of the Davis cup.

And then the 27-year-old Briton, who has been carrying with professional promoters for two years, capitulated and gave up all his amateur glory for gold. Starting in January, he will make a professional tour of the United States with elongated Ellsworth Vines as his principal antagonist.

Perry's all-conquering performances, except for a five-set defeat in the finals of the French Hard Courts championship by Germany's Baron Gottfried von Cramm, and then his defection from the amateur ranks, which was a blinding blow to England's hopes of retaining the International team trophy, obviously overshadowed all other tennis developments of the year.

Paled into insignificance by Perry's exploits were achievement by Helen Hull Jacobs of her long quest of the all-England championship at Wimbledon, the abrupt termination of her four-year reign as American queen and the ascension of Alice Marble, who was forced by illness out of competition the latter part of

PERRY MARBLE

1934 and all of 1935, and America's sixth consecutive triumph in the women's Wightman cup team series with England.

Heads Medicine Men
When Perry fell and jarred loose a kidney in the seventh game of the first set of his match against Wilmer Allison at Forest Hills in September, 1935, there were some—not without reason—who were ready to sound taps over his career. A sensible young man, Perry paid strict obedience to doctors' advice and put himself on the shelf for nearly six months. He returned to the courts early in the spring and it didn't take long to rekindle the old spark.

His successful defense of the all-England title was just a romp. He took red-head Don Budge of Oakland, Cal., who looms as the heir-ap parent to Perry's throne, in four sets in the semi-final, and then, for the second year in a row, buried Von Cramm in the final. Von Cramm was reported to have been suffering from an injured groin muscle.

Thereafter followed his five-set and three-set victories over Adrian Karl Quist and Jack Crawford, respectively, as England defeated Australia in the Davis Cup challenge round. Australia was the most serious challenger England had faced in two years, and, from the start, it was up to Perry. Quist gave him some trouble, but the veteran Crawford withered under the sting of Fred's truculent racket.

Perry Invades U. S.
With that business disposed of, Fred came to the United States and, except for a courageous stand made by Budge, had no trouble at all in regaining our championship and succeeding Allison. Allison didn't defend. The 31-year-old Texan says he's through with singles competition. That probably goes for doubles, too, because he and Johnny Van Ryn lost the tandem title to Budge and Gene Mako.

Budge gave Perry his toughest battle on grass of the year. Apparently only the lanky Californian's inexperience deprived him of victory. Twice in the last set of the five-set match Budge was within two points of victory. But each time Perry rose masterfully to the occasion and shut out Budge from any chance of capitalizing on his opportunities. The scores were 2-6, 8-6, 1-6, 10-8.

A few weeks after the championship, Perry and his actress-wife, Helen Vinson, purchased a home in California and then, last month, he announced he had signed a contract with Frank Hunter and Howard Voshell. During the amateur days Vines and Perry met five times. Vines won four matches and was forced to default in the fifth when he seemed to be on the threshold of victory.

Helen's Ups and Downs
Miss Jacobs' win from Frau Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling of Germany and Denmark in the all-England final was universally cheered because it capped the charming California's most cherished ambition. She'd been in the Wimbledon final before, but there was always someone else, principally Helen Wills Moody, who beat her for the title.

But the cheers turned into groans for Miss Jacobs. During the early stages of the American championship she dislocated the thumb on her racket hand and played through with the injured digit tightly banded. It didn't seem to bother her much. Whether it did or not didn't make any difference in the final, because on that day, at least, she met her master in Alice Marble.

Miss Marble won an honor she seemed headed for in the spring of 1934 when illness forced her into retirement. She arrived on her game toward the close of the first set, which she lost 6-4, and then, giving a brilliant display of shot-making which some expert observers said was the finest they'd seen in years at Forest Hills, captured the next two sets, 6-3, 6-2.

K. H. S. Varsity Plays at Saugerties

The Maroon and White basketball quintets open their 1936-37 campaign by opposing Saugerties at the upriver court tonight. The K. H. S. varsity unit will contest with a typical Cahill combine at 8:30 in the main attraction, preceded by a preliminary event featuring the rival junior varsity aggregations.

Saugerties has annexed one case scalp already, having administered a sound 34-14 trouncing to the Tannersville Central High School courtsters last Tuesday. Tonight's bill of fare will be the first venture of the Klansmen into the current dribble campaign. A spirited rivalry has blossomed between the neighboring schools and the long case serial has been marked by repeated classics. Saugerties is burning to revenge the 47-27 trouncing achieved in the season's finale last year and a victory is predicted for the villagers, according to the upcountry journals.

A large delegation of localites is expected to make the jaunt and a special student bus has been chartered.

Coach Kias has designated no official starting lineup in keeping with his usual policy of withholding the starters until just before game time. The Cahillmen have a veteran five on hand and a tightly contested battle is expected. The probable starting lineups:

Pos. Kingston Saugerties
R. F.—Rowland Wolves
L. F.—C. Rock Naudain
C.—Maines Beres
R. G.—Rahli Weisner
L. G.—Pertei Bauer

Midget Plane Built to Steer With Wing
Sydney, Australia.—It has remained for Ken Affeck, a seventeen-year-old youth of New South Wales, to invent the "flying sea" airplane.

The fuselage is nine and one-half feet long and the top wing span twenty-two feet.

The machine was constructed in six weeks at an expense of $750.

Hunk Anderson Is Out of Coaching Job

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 22 (AP)—Hunk Anderson, head football coach at North Carolina State College for the past three years, was out of a job today but one of his staunchest alumni supporters threatened a court fight over the dismissal.

Soon after Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the greater University of North Carolina—of which State is a unit—announced a reorganization of the athletic set-up which eliminated Anderson, Dave Clark alumni representative on the athletic council, said:

"We believe he (Dr. Graham) has acted in an illegal manner and shall test his authority in the courts."

The contract of Anderson, former Notre Dame coach, expires on December 31. His teams have had up and down seasons, and this year's record was three won and seven lost.

The athletic reorganization was announced in a joint statement by Dr. Graham and Col. John W. Harrelson, dean of administration, who said they would recommend it to the board of trustees.

It was understood the refusal to give Anderson a new contract also covered his assistants, Ed Kosky and Mike Koken.

Anderson said last night he had had two coaching offers, but he remarked last night he did not know if they were still open.

"I haven't been dickering with them at all," he said.

DUSO DRIBBLE DATA

N. F. A. Trims Monticello
Newburgh Free Academy emerged victorious in its initial DUSO League test by overcoming Monticello with a strong second-half rally to win 22-13. The Billy city-hoopsters turned on the heat after trailing 10-7 at half time and restricted the Monties to three foul shots in the home stretch before a capacity crowd at the mountaineers' court.

Paskowitz, performing from the left guard slot, notched 7 markers to pace the NFA attack. Howie Havens crossed the nets for 6 and the balance of the Goeweymen's offensive was well distributed. Lipschitz and Yankelowitz were the dominant factors in the Monties' deuce department, collecting 5 and 3 tallies.

Newburgh was way off color in the first-half, but put on an alright defense with Capt. D'Altulo as the main bulwark and restricted the hill-billies to three lone foul shots while making 15 themselves. Monticello baffled the free scholars with its zone defense, but repeated five-man offensive waves finally broke through to rout the hosts. Davidoff, of Monticello, was expelled for unnecessary roughing and Lahey, sensational soph, was put out via the personal foul route. DUSO observers were impressed with Newburgh's quietest and lauded them as leading contenders for the crown. Individual scorers for the crown: Newburgh (22)—Lahey, rf., 4; Havens, lf., 6; Plus, c., 2; D'Altulo, rf., 3; Paskowitz, lg., 1.

Monticello (13)—Hembdt, rf., 1; Davidoff, lf., 1; Prince, lf., 0; Stanton, c., 3; Yankelowitz, rg., 3; Lipschitz, lg., 5.

Liberty Nips Middletown
Liberty nipped Middletown in a sensational DUSO cage skirmish at the Rossmore's court to knock a 26-24 victory in the league opener. Middletown's midjet quintet showed the way in a thrill-packed duel until the closing minutes when baskets by Loefell and Hasbrouck clinched the contest. The mid-city cagers led all the way, being in front 13-11 at the half and 20-19 at the third quarter.

Referee Sam Kalloch enforced 28 fouls and Middletown's failure to convert only 8 out of 16 set one team put up a heroic fight against the gigantic Rossmore who netted 8 of 12 free throws.

Hasbrouck, towering 6 foot three inch center, corded 4 fields and a foul for 9 points to cap high scoring honors. The tall-timbered pivotman throttled Bob Duffus to a lone field in a brilliant defensive exhibit. Capt. Bud Loefell turned in a grade A floor game for the sons of Liberty. Wagner and Paduch combined in the forward slots to corner 15 of the Middle points. Wagner was high with one field and 6 fouls for 8 markers, while Paduch tossed 3 fields and an ace for 7. Middle's harried the giants with their fast break, but the Rossmore's height was a bit too much to overcome. Hasbrouck's superb shooting and statemating the flashy Duffus were the deciding factors in the billmen's victory.

Liberty (26)—Loefell, lf., 1-2-4; Klicola, rf., 2-0-4; Gottlieb, rf., 0-2-2; Hasbrouck, c., 4-1-9; Benton, rg., 1-2-5; Crook, lg., 1-0-2.

Middletown (24)—Wagner, rf., 1-6-8; Paduch, lf., 3-1-7; Duffus, c., 1-0-2; Harmon, rg., 1-1-3; Ellertin, lg., 1-0-2; Quackenbush, lg., 1-0-2.

Ellenville Loses
Port Jervis' red and black basketball brigade trimmed Ellenville 25-20 on the cramped Ellenville court to register their DUSO debut with a victory. Coach Lou Horvath's savviest outmaneuvered the south Uster boys in the first half to gain a 17-4 advantage. Ellenville rallied desperately in the last stanza to run up 12 successive points and had Port reeling on the ropes at the final.

Orlando, one of the perennial athletic family, racked up 13 markers while Whitney, Port leader, collected 11 to form the main offensive spearheads. The game verged on the listless at times but Ellenville's last quarter rush peppered up the small assemblage. Orlando was in sensational form and rained baskets on the Clarkmen's without let evening. Whitney set the cords swishing with a couple of big berths, while Rosenstein garnered 5 points to lead Ellenville and was the main factor in the Clarkmen's comeback.

Port Jervis substituted freely and the game lapsed into the ludicrous midway in the third quarter when many shots were missed in reckless abandon. Port went into a three-way tie for the DUSO leadership with Liberty and Newburgh.

Port Jervis (35)—Heaton, rf., 1; Orlando, lf., 12; Quinn, c., 8; Pettit, rf., 6; Whitney, lg., 11; Duffy, lg., 9; Saylor, lg., 9.

Ellenville (29)—Rosenstein, rf., 5; Friend, lf., 4; DeWitt, c., 1; Hansen, 3; Jargovsky, lg., 2; Nissenbaum, lg., 2.

Kingston High School's 1936 football squad members were awarded insignia yesterday morning at the school auditorium in the annual presentation of gridiron letters. Fourteen major K's were presented in the yearly ceremony to the varsity recipients and the members of the reserve squadrons received minor letters.

Superintendent Longman, DUSO League president, awarded the Hamilton Fish trophy in an official presentation to the current DUSO champions. Capt. Don Murphy, leader of the pennant winners, accepted and was escorted by a guard of honor consisting of the co-captains, Tommy Maines and Bill Meagher, to safely stow away the most coveted cup in the trophy case.

Evelyn Olivet performed the presentation duties in a commendable manner and, despite the tradition-shattering action, turned in a capable and competent portrayal as a master of ceremonies. Miss Olivet gave a short word portrait of the players' outstanding feats in an individual summation of the varsity letter earners. 14 new type insignia and silver footballs with appropriate championship wording were awarded to the members of the varsity squad, including the team manager and A. A. treasurer. Captain Don Murphy, past leader, was the first recipient followed by co-captains Tommy Maines and Bill Meagher. Harry Wilber, George Rifenbury, Americo "Rocky" Tedenini, Arnold "Jabbo" Nyulassy, Carl Studer, Robert Delany, Bill Von Essen, Louis Voigt, Richard Decker and Manager Dick Pfeiffer were the members of the plucky, inspirational 1936 gridiron squad that received the major awards. Len Davis, A. A. treasurer, received the major K in reward for his financial responsibilities.

The following members of the varsity squad received minor insignia and also were awarded the small silver football emblems accorded first-string players: Jimmy Ashdown, Jay DeWitt, Earl Friedman, John Gilday, Jack Halstein, Collins Troy, Charles Kenney, Bill Powers, Vince Stoll, Bull Studer, Ray Schneider, Irv Rose and Donald T. Lane. Members of the second-string 11 who received the minor letter were: John Bailey, Joe Clarke, Chester Capriott, Bill Cole, Jack Cook, Bill Darling, Jack Rice, Frank Stauble, Ken Douglas, Johnny Ennist, Charles Lawson, John "Red" Leahy, Ralph Libby, Jack McCullough, Andy Murphy and John Cullough.

Following the presentation ceremonies, Superintendent B. C. Van Hosen presented two distinguished visitors to the senior assembly in the personage of Athletic Director C. Everett Stevens of Newburgh and DUSO League president, M. W. Longman, also of Newburgh. Coach Stevens made a most stirring tribute to the championship team and to Coach Kias for the splendid record compiled as a sportsman and tempered the enthusiasm with a future warning to K. H. S. to beware of Newburgh next year. Superintendent M. W. Longman then officially awarded the beautiful Hamilton Fish trophy to the local school authorities and Captain Murphy in behalf of Kingston High School.

Tribute was paid to the competent coaching staff consisting of Head Coach G. Warren Kias and assistants Fuller, Anderson and team trainer, J. C. Rrazer, and Elmer Hopper, assistant backfield mentor. And so the official awarding ceremony concludes a most successful gridiron season and pays homage to another in the recent string of championship outfits produced by Kingston.

Indoor Tennis at New York Armory

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—The tennis "tourists" from Kenyon College are coming east again. This time, instead of unknown racket wielders, they're seeded Nos. 1 and 2 in the national indoor junior championships which get under way Saturday at the Seventh Regiment armory.

The "tourists" are Don McNeill of Oklahoma City and Morley Lewis of Texarkana, Ark. Last spring they turned up in New York with a couple of college teammates just to see what they could do.

McNeill won the eastern junior title with Lewis as runner up; they were among the last few to be eliminated in most of their other tournaments, and they performed expertly as a doubles team.

Other seeded juniors, seeking the title won last year by Alfred Jarvis of Tenady, N. J., and Williams College, are Melvin E. Lapman, Charles J. Mattman, Joseph Fishbach and Marvin Kastrowitz of New York; Albert Rittenberg of Washington; Harold Beilla of Philadelphia; Henry H. Danile, Jr., and Robert A. Low of Choate School, Malcom Weinstock of Philadelphia and George MacCall of the University of Virginia.

The boys' Championship, runnng concurrently with the junior event, drew 54 entries with Arthur H. Ish Jr., of San Diego, Calif., and William Umstaedter of Milbra, N. J., leading the seeded list.

Mrs. Sturdevant, Owner Cragmoor Inn, Dies in This City

Mrs. Augusta Densmore Sturdevant, 81, owner and manager of the Cragmoor Inn at Cragmoor, and a widely known portrait painter, died Friday evening at the Hackett Sanitarium in this city. The remains were taken to the New York and New Jersey Crematory at Union City, N. J., Saturday by W. N. Conner, funeral director of this city.

Mrs. Sturdevant was a daughter of the late Amos and Priscilla Compton Densmore and was graduated from Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., with the class of 1876 with the degree of B. A. A year later she received a M. A. degree there. She studied art at the Art Students' league in New York City under Carroll Beckwith and under Raphael Collins in Paris.

Mrs. Sturdevant's works were exhibited at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893 and in the Spring Salon in Paris in 1895 where she received honorable mention. In recent years she had operated Cragmoor Inn, a summer resort in the Shawangunk mountains above Ellenville, which was patronized largely by artists.

Her husband, James Warner Sturdevant, to whom she was married in 1878, later became president of the Densmore Typewriter Company of New York.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Elsie S. Compton of Cragmoor and Miss Winifred Sturdevant of New York City, and also three grandchildren.

SOY BEAN ARRIVES IN THE GRAIN PIT

First Legume to Join Grains for "Futures" Trading.

Washington, D. C.—The soy bean stepped onto the grain market of Chicago's famous Pit a few weeks ago, becoming the first legume, or pod-bearing plant, to join the grains featured for "futures" trading.

"The new commodity, a naturalized Chinese immigrant, has had less than ten years stardom in the pageant of American agriculture," says the National Geographic society. "Yet last year it brought home more bacon than did either barley or oats. This year it leaps to the center of the stage beside grains which discovered America soon after Columbus.

"Like the grains, each soy bean crop will hereafter find its way to the market channels of a nation by the daily drama of the Pit, staged within the building of Chicago's Board of Trade. In name only are grains and beans present in its paneled oak trading hall. Silo-high and more than barn-broad, the huge room has no farming connections except by telephone. Its harvesting implements are clicking telegraph keys and blackboards on which fortunes are feverishly chalked up and as feverishly erased. "Futures," the contracts for crops sold now but yet unseen or unplanted, ripen by the light of tall windows rising five stories high and a chandelier 40 feet in diameter.

Bought and Sold by Hand.
"Visitors in the galleries may watch this noisy many-ringed circus of marketing by remote control. The rings are the pits, one each for wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, etc. Wheat, because it travels well and bakes best, performs its price-jumps in the largest ring. The pits are enclosed craters sunk in the floor, seething with traders. Their major eruptions are noted in history as panics.

"The clamor of commerce produces such a din that the trader must resort to sign language to make himself heard. His hand lifted vertically, to signal the quantity of grain in the transaction, gives him, let us say, 25,000 bushels for better or worse. Fingers extended horizontally govern prices. The flick of a thumb in Chicago may determine whether the housewife in California will soon count out a penny more or less at the grocery.

"Similar trading in crop futures takes place on the grain markets of Winnipeg, Liverpool and Buenos Aires, and in this country in Minneapolis, Kansas City, Duluth, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Portland and New York City. But Chicago holds the key to the grain bin of the United States. Since 1848, when merchants gathered upstairs over a flour store to fix cereal prices, it has been almost continuously the world's leading grain exchange.

"Converging lines of steel, which make Chicago the foremost railroad hub in the country, garner the grain from every direction. Six times 'cultivated' by the steam-roller effect of glaciers, and enriched almost daily by the swift alternation of sun and rain, the surrounding countryside has the greatest total value of farm property in the United States.

Thrives in Illinois.
"The soy bean, latest satellite to join the grain galaxy, thrives best in Illinois, which produces as much as all the other 47 states put together. The rapidly expanding bean belt includes Indiana, Iowa and Missouri. Any soy bean census, however, is probably incomplete, for much of its acreage is distributed in small patches on large farms, where it gives the good earth a rest and offers a new kind of green pastures to corn-fed hogs. The hay is even now encouraging some of the nation's livestock to face a hard winter.

"The versatile bean has been ground into meal with bread as its final destination, or such floury compounds as macaroni and crackers. American factories are now making soy sauce which has been and still is imported in large quantities from the Orient.

"Soy bean oil has been successfully initiated into the paint industry, and now may paint the barn that houses its hay, as well as the truck that hauled it to market. Waterproofing for cloth, size for paper, and glue are some of the other forms in which the bean is serviceable. When ground up, it can be mixed into a pasty plastic, and used as a substitute for celluloid and hard rubber. The purchasing public may be entertaining soy beans unaware in fountain pens, ash trays, chocolate candy, or linoleum.

"The United States is still second in soy bean culture to Manchuria, where most of the crop for China's millions grows. Five years ago, Japan was growing more soy beans than the United States, but now the ratio is reversed. Manchuria, China, and Netherlands India are still the leading bean-raisers of the Orient.

"It has been estimated that the crop in the United States this year will be double that of last year, with a possible production of 30,000,000 bushels."

God bless all farmers a marked profusion of fat when fed to hogs on Iowa state college research shows.

Plaid Hats Go South

A plaid straw hat is something different—and just the thing to add a colorful touch to a southern resort wardrobe. This big panache sailor is made of natural colored East Indian straw with red, blue and green plaid markings. The shallow crown is banded with red grosgrain ribbon. (Design by Harry Solomons.)

Home Institute REGAIN YOUTHFUL FIGURE

It's fun to feel the pounds slip away. But is it fun to diet? That's up to you!

Low-calory meals can make you purr with contentment while your girlish lines return. Or they can jolt you off the wagon at the first whiff of chocolate cake—if they're like the 293-calory meal pictured here. Flabby spinach with a pallid poached egg? Bread without butter? Coffee with sugar and cream is all that makes this lunch bearable.

Now try a few tricks that make dieting easy. Start with piping hot Munschhausen broth. It tastes good and adds only 20 calories. Make your spinach inviting with crescents of hard-boiled egg and tasty with Barbecue Sauce—delectable low-calory substitute for butter on vegetables. Eat it with crisp Melba toast (extra thin bread dried out in a slow oven) and with Foamy Milk Shake perked up with nutmeg.

Now you are comfortably full and will stay that way all afternoon. Yet you've eaten only 271 calories. You'll lose weight because your body must draw on your fat reserve to keep chugging along.

Our 40-page booklet gives recipes for these low-calory foods. Follow its appetizing menus. Its valuable calory chart.

Fictional Detectives Are Brought To Life In New York School For Doctor-Sleuths

By CHARLES NORMAN
(AP) Feature Service Writer

New York (AP)—The doctor-sleuth celebrated in fiction is a real-life character at New York university's college of medicine.

Blazing a medico-legal trail of scientific crime detection with its course in forensic medicine, the college's teaching staff includes such experts in the realm of sudden and suspicious death as Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, acting chief medical examiner of New York city, whose office handles 16,000 such cases annually; Dr. Harrison S. Martland, chief medical examiner of Essex county (Newark), N. J.; Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, New York city toxicologist, and others to whom the body of a victim in a tell-tale base from which to track down the murderer.

College's Reply

It is the college's reply to what it terms the antiquated coroner's system in force throughout most of the United States and under which Dean John Wyckoff says, the officer whose duty it is to investigate suspicious deaths is "generally chosen for his vote-getting ability rather than for any scientific attainments." Not only physicians, but special students such as law officers, attorneys, students of criminology and others interested in law enforcement are taught the routine of the medical examiner's office in its relations with the district attorney, the police and the courts; how to identify unknown bodies; the characteristic patterns made by certain instruments used in homicides and other cases and utilization of clues at the scene of a crime.

Gonzales Explains

"The average physician," Dr. Gonzales explains, "sees cases only in a hospital. He cannot, from this alone, always determine the latent criminal factors in a sudden or suspicious death. As a result, we hear of exhumations of bodies after a year or two years, sometimes longer, whereas a proper certification of death in the first place, by experts, would make this unnecessary."

His office is the only city department empowered by law to make autopsies in cases of violent death. "This is the routine we follow," Dr. Gonzales went on.

All Deaths Reported

"All violent deaths are reported to the police and the district attorney. The district attorney makes an investigation and brings a suspect before a magistrate. The magistrate may hold the defendant for the grand jury. If the jury indicts, the suspect is held for trial. "Photos and fingerprints are taken at the scene of the crime."

A BIT OF RESEARCH

Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, acting chief medical examiner of New York City, hunts up a little information to speed his work in helping track down criminals by scientific investigation.

Then the body is ordered to the morgue for further examination and an autopsy, and the findings are dictated to an official stenographer.

"After the autopsy (to determine the cause of death), there is a routine examination for the presence or absence of alcohol in the brain, and in the case of suspected drug addicts a test for drug presence."

Thorough Investigation

"In poison cases, the city toxicologist examines the affected organs," Dr. Gonzales puffed his cigar, swung around in his chair, and added triumphantly: "When we get through with a homicide case, we don't have an exhumation later."

He emphasized that the functions of the medical examiner's office are purely investigatory, while its primary function is the establishment of an accurate cause of death. He told how a suspect's life was saved by his department.

"Uptown," he said, "there is a boarding house for Japanese. One night a boarder found the body of the landlady on the floor. He notified police. She had been strangled, and there were blood flecks around her mouth."

Find Blood Stains
"While questioning the discoverer of the body, it was noticed there were blood stains on his shirt. He said he worked in a restaurant and had cleaned a chicken."

"Of course he was held. But not only did investigation show that he had cleaned a chicken in the restaurant that night, as he said, but our chemist's report proved the blood on his shirt was not human blood but the blood of a chicken."

"If it had not been for this scientific analysis, the man might have gone to the chair."

(Readers familiar with detective fiction will recall the test for blood stains Sherlock Holmes had just developed in his laboratory when the memorable first meeting with Dr. Watson took place.)

Dr. Gonzales, whose official duties bring him to scenes of violence and sudden death every day, is a brown-eyed, mild-mannered man fond of his cigar, soft spoken and meticulously attired.

Herberich Case Goes to Jury

Testimony was concluded Monday afternoon in the action brought in Supreme Court by Bernhard Herberich of Marlborough against D. Ginsberg & Son and Mrs. Ginsberg, an action to recover damages for repairing the plaintiff's bakery shop in Marlborough which was damaged when struck by a car operated by Mrs. Ginsberg last July. The case will be submitted to the jury today.

The plaintiff alleges a Pontiac car of the defendant operated by Mrs. Ginsberg and occupied by her two children and a nurse collided with his store on July 25 last and did some $1,300 damage.

On the stand Mrs. Ginsberg said she was driving north on 9-W when for some reason unknown to her the car suddenly began to run very fast. She endeavored to slow down the machine and failed. As the car's speed increased she said she attempted to apply the brakes and stop but that failed and she tried to throw the car out of gear but was unable to do that. She said she had not thought of turning off the ignition. As the car gained speed and was traveling 60 miles an hour or more she entered the village and narrowly missed striking a truck and a bus.

With the car zig zagging up the street she attempted to gain control and finally came to the end of Kings street where the machine crashed. She was taken unconscious from the car with a fractured skull and lacerations and the two children and the nurse were also injured.

After the car struck the building it burst into flames and when rescuers came they found one of the children wedged under the dash where the flames seemed to be coming from. The child was removed and someone ran to the fire house and secured an extinguisher and put out the fire.

The defendant contends that there was some defect in the car which caused the accident. The car was almost new. A mechanic testified that when he examined the car after the accident he found the butterfly valve in the carburetor stuck wide open.

Seal Sale Funds Used Widely

"It is surprising how few people in Ulster county know the real work and the variety of work made possible through the sale of Christmas Seals," said Harry S. Ensign, treasurer of the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health today. Almost everyone knows that the work done by the association includes the fight against tuberculosis—the prevention, fighting of cases and care of the dreaded white plague—but very few realize that that is only a part of the association's work. Mr. Ensign went further to say that the Ulster County Committee maintains a health camp—Camp Happyland—where 96 undernourished and handicapped children are given four weeks each of health building and training so they might overcome the threatening disaster of tuberculosis in later years.

It provides a nurse who assists in the clinic work, tuberculin testing of school children in Kingston and Ulster county and visitation of patients in the tuberculosis program. The association also devotes a great deal of time and effort to the health education of the general public by distributing health literature, posters and books, fostering health exhibits and contests, providing health lectures and promoting the exhibition of films, slides, etc., to show the public how to keep well. "All this work is supported by the sale of Christmas Seals alone," said Mr. Ensign. "I am sure that if the people of Ulster county understand thoroughly how much good the association is doing and that the funds for its work come entirely from the sale of Christmas Seals they will be sure to buy more seals this year to help the work along."

Jewels, Spangles, Belles and Music Open Opera Season

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Opera-goers who graced the Golden Horseshoe at the opening of the Metropolitan Opera's fifty-second season summed it up today as "quite reminiscent of the old days."

Some of the women turned out in pre-depression splendor for Wagner's opera, "The Valkyrie," wearing little birds in their hair, pink camellias and sparkling jewels.

All the 4,200 seats were sold, and several hundred stood to hear Kirsten Flagstad as Brunnhilde, and three singers in their debut.

Libby Holman Reynolds, with four white flowers in her dark hair and toe-nails that gleamed scarlet through open sandals, appeared in a white net gown, swathed in white fox furs, and "stole the show" in the foyer from several society belles.

Nino Martini lounged in the corridor, with a sweet smile for every pretty woman who passed.

John Jacob Astor, III, came with his young wife, the former "Tucky" French, their entrance narrowly missing that of Astor's former fiancée, Eileen Gillespie.

Fannie Hurst, the novelist, paraded in the entrance, in a long-sleeved white satin gown dripping with fringe. Mrs. Joseph Davies, the former Mrs. Marjorie Post Hutcheon, wealthy wife of the new American ambassador to Russia, wore her diamonds, and an ermine evening wrap lavishly trimmed with silver fox.

"Wagner is the real star of this evening," said Edward Johnson, manager of the company, but to the crowd, there were other "stars."

Mrs. James Roosevelt, the President's mother, in black chiffon, and a white-furred wrap, arrived after a dinner party, escorted by Pierre Cartier.

Lawrence Tibbett was there with his handsome brunette wife. She wore a black lace veil on her head, a sweeping black velvet gown and a long white ermine cape fastened with diamonds.

Fons wore a black velvet dress with a square cut-out on the front, leaving part of her diaphragm exposed.

The tiny singer and her fiancé, Andre Kostelanetz, had a lemonade between acts.

The newcomers in the opera cast were Kerstin Thorborg, Swedish contralto, Anna Kaskas, an American, and Irene Jessner, Viennese.

Almost the only figure missing from the Golden Horseshoe was Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, whose wide headband and diamond stomacher adorned the first box on the left, at opening nights, for years. She was in the south, with her husband, who has been ill.
